1 INT. A STUFFY MANSION--A NIGHT ABOUT FORTY YEARS AGO 1

The viewer floats through an overbearing mansion and up its sweeping staircase to where a stern man in conservative dress is pacing back and forth, smoking a cigarette in a cigarette holder. He is the FATHER. The throes-of-labor pants and moans of the MOTHER can be heard from down the hall.

Now, eerie Gaas and Goos chill the air. The Father stops and gapes the cigarette holder out of his mouth to see a dazed NURSE shuffle out of the birth room and disappear down the hallway. *

A TRAUMATIZED DOCTOR next wanders out. The Father runs past him into the room. The viewer remains outside and hears the Father's subsequent screams. *

2 INT. MANSION LIVING ROOM--CHRISTMAS EVE PAST 2

A bizarrely corrugated Cage sits amid the plush, period, and Christmased-up surroundings of the mansion. With their backs turned to the sickly squeals emerging from the Playpen from Hell, Father and Mother, holding martinis, look out a window of gentle snowfall, with bloodshot eyes. A 50's-type radio warbles "Santa Claus is coming to Town."

A strange pair of eyes <sup>DT</sup> peer from <sup>Q</sup> the cage. Taking the point of view of the eyes from inside the playpen, one sees the mansion's Christmas tree from between the dark cage slats.

GIDDY YULETIDE SINGERS

"He knows when you are sleeping, he knows when you're awake..."

The family cat skulks past the cage -- almost. Without warning, the cat is yanked -- so fast and powerfully it seems that it's been sucked -- through the bars, into the cage. A feline SCREAM, then sickening silence.

With dead syncopation, Mother and Father finish off their martinis, and plop the empty glasses down.

3 EXT. A PARK--THAT NIGHT 3

A HAPPY COUPLE in 50's dress, pushes a baby carriage through the park cooing toward their bundle of joy inside.

3

Father and Mother straggle from the other direction, creaking forward an ominously closed-up, wickedly designed baby carriage that serves to muffle nasty whining and thumping noises.

HAPPY COUPLE

Merry Christmas!

Father and Mother fake a smiling response that collapses as the happy couple passes. They then brake at a story-book bridge over a bubbling brook. With dark nonchalance, Father and Mother each grab an end of the carriage and heave it upward.

4 EXT. THE CARRIAGE--NIGHT

swirls in the air and splashes down into the small river. Right side up, the carriage gently rides the tranquil rapids out of the park area. It bobs through an open sewer tunnel pipe.

5 INT. THE SEWER--NIGHT

5

The carriage innocently slides through the murky waters of the awesomely cavernous and creepy sewer, softly surfing its sides.

6 INT. A DARK LAIR--NIGHT

6

The resilient carriage spews from a gaping pipe into a moat of water that surrounds a vast patch of snow and ice that is the centerpiece of a dark and mysterious lair.

The carriage rides a gentle wave onto the sanctuary's arctic island, into a patch of light. From out of the darkness of the lair, FOUR STATUESQUE EMPEROR PENGUINS WITH DISTINGUISHED GRAY BELLIES regally approach the carriage and surround it with spooky authority.

FROM OUT OF THE DARKNESS OF THE OPENING CREDITS WE GO TO...

7 EXT. A DISPLAY WINDOW--EARLY EVENING OF THE CURRENT ERA 7

A Batman logo fills the frame with a portentous soundtrack boom. A playful salvo of snowballs reverberates against this image as the logo is revealed to be a hanging centerpiece in the display window of a store that sells Batman sleds, lunch boxes, T-shirts, and ticking-to-twenty-before-Seven clocks.

8 EXT. GOTHAM PLAZA--EARLY EVENING 8

Bathed in pristine snow and packed with ELATED SHOPPERS, POINSETTIA GRASPING LOVERS, BLESSED CAROLERS, and an overwhelming array of Christmas decoration, the intimate Plaza center of Gotham City has been dragged kicking and screaming into a state of beauty and happiness.

An ALL-AMERICAN DAD holds up a bowed Batman sled to an ALL-AMERICAN MOM. An ALL-AMERICAN SON rushes up causing All-American Dad to exaggeratedly hide the present behind his back.

Just behind them, an ADORABLE LITTLE GIRL takes a dollar from her precious little purse and gives it to a SALVATION ARMY SANTA. A sweet, microphoned voice wafts out over the Plaza.

SWEET MICROPHONED VOICE (O.S.)

Could I have your attention, Gotham City?

9 EXT. FROM AN ELEVATED STAGE AT THE CENTER OF THE PLAZA--EVENING 9

A dewy-eyed young lovely, wearing a snow bunny fur, a tiara, and a banner streamed across her chest that reads ICE PRINCESS, continues into her mike. An Elegant Lampost Clock, near the stage, ticks fifteen minutes till seven.

ICE PRINCESS

It's time for tonight's Lighting of the Tree! How 'bout that!

The merry Consumers stop to watch the Ice Princess scurry to an IMMENSE VIBRANTLY MULTI-COLORED BUTTON and press it down. This causes a mammoth Christmas Tree to light up. The crowd erupts in aahs and oohs.

10 INT. A VERTICAL SEWER GRATE--EVENING 10

Through a grand, vertical half-circle sewer grate, an older pair of strange eyes peer. Taking the point of view of the eyes through the grate slats, one sees the blazing Christmas Tree, just as one did through the Playpen bars.

11 EXT. OUTSIDE THE SEWER GRATE--EVENING 11

A pair of black webbed hands -- flippers, really -- curl out around the grate bars. Eerily poking out next is a twisted bird-like nose and a creepy pair of barely audible lips.

THE CREEPY LIPS

"I know when you are sleeping, I know when you're awake."

The world's most beloved butler, ALFRED, marches past the sewer grate, past a PAPERBOY who bustles up, holding a newspaper headlined "PENGUIN -- MAN OR MYTH OR SOMETHING WORSE?"

PAPERBOY

Read about the latest sighting of the Penguin creature! He was seen torching a homeless shelter, robbing a blind --

ALFRED

Dear Boy: Sometimes it is a diversion to read such piffle. Most times it is a waste of time.

Alfred suddenly feels a chill from behind, and below him. He turns to the sewer grate just as the slimy flippers disappear into the darkness. *

12 EXT. THE TOP OF THE SHRECK BUILDING--NIGHT

12

The viewer goes from Gotham's bowels to its summit. The top floor of the building housing the department store is a tower of Ivory with a large, friendly sentinel of a cat at its tippy top. Two men stand in the window, pointing down to the Plaza below.

13 INT. MAX SHRECK'S CONFERENCE ROOM--NIGHT

13

The conference room presents itself in its high-tech splendor. A mighty Shreck Corporation logo of a friendly cat adorns one wall.

The two men are MAX SHRECK and THE MAYOR. Max is a pillar of community charisma. The Mayor is more straightforward, less spectacular. *

MAYOR

Well here's hoping ... With Batman protecting us, and all your enterprises keeping our economy on full boil, Gotham just might have its first real Christmas in a good long while.

MAX

(nods, then)

I feel almost vulgar, in this Yuletide context, about mentioning the new power plant.

(MORE)

MAX (CONT'D)

But if we're gonna break ground when we've gotta break ground, I'll need permits, variances, tax incentives ... that sort of pesky nonsense.

Evidently, this is the first the Mayor has heard of it.

MAYOR

"Power plant"? Max, our studies show that Gotham has enough energy sources to sustain growth into the next cen--

*
*
*

MAX

(scoffs)

Your analysts are talking growth at one percent per annum. That's not growth, that's a mild swelling. I'm planning ahead for a revitalized Gotham City ... So we can light the whole plaza without worrying about brownouts ... Do you like the sound of "brownouts"? Do you?

*

Behind them, Max's football-hero son CHIP (as in Chip off the old block) enters, with SELINA KYLE, Max's beautiful-beneath-bifocals-and-a-subdued-haircut assistant. She sets down fresh coffee for Max and the Mayor.

MAX

Imagine a Gotham City of the future lit up like a blanket of stars ... but blinking on and off, embarrassingly low on juice. Frankly I cringe, Mr. Mayor.

Chip glances to a fierce digital clock showing 6:50.

CHIP

Dad. Mr. Mayor ... It's time to go downstairs and bring joy to the masses.

Max looks to the Mayor: what's it gonna be?

*

(curt)

Sorry. You'll have to submit reports, blueprints and plans to the usual committees, through the usual channels.

*
*

13

This isn't what Max wants to hear. But before he can retort:

SELINA

Um, I had a suggestion. Well, really, actually more of just a question ...

Max turns, goggle-eyed at the impertinence. *

MAX

I'm afraid we haven't properly house-broken Ms. Kyle. In the plus column, though, she knows how to brew coffee.

As Chip follows his father and the Mayor out he tells Selina, re the untouched coffee: *

CHIP

Thanks. Y'know it's not the caffeine that buzzes us -- it's the obedience.

Now Selina is alone.

SELINA

Shut up, Chip. DT 0

Then she slaps her forehead with her palm.

SELINA

"Actually more of just a question."
You stupid corn dog. Corn dog.
Corn dog.

14 EXT. OUTSIDE SHRECK'S DEPARTMENT STORE--NIGHT

14

Max, his son and the Mayor roll out from beneath the SHRECK sign, through popping flashbulbs and happy Gothamites. *

Max smoothly hands a fifty and a second bill to a Salvation Army Santa. Santa checks the second bill. It's a single.

CHIP

Watch your step, Dad, it's pretty grotesque...

Max gracefully side-steps an island of melting sludge. We follow its oozing stream down into a sewer grate. *

15 INT. BELOW IN THE SEWER--NIGHT 15

A silhouette of a squat, gnarled figure responds to the icky drizzle by flapping open an umbrella, in shadow.

16 EXT. THE STAGE--NIGHT 16

As Max and the Mayor move -- both smiling -- to the dais:

MAX

I have enough signatures -- from Shreck employees alone -- to warrant a recall. That's not a threat.
Just simple math.

MAYOR

Maybe. But you don't have an issue,
Max. Nor do you have a candidate.

The elegant clock behind them says five minutes till seven. Max and the Mayor both peck the Ice Princess's cheek. Now the Mayor takes the mike. With forced joviality:

MAYOR

The man who's given this city so much is here, to keep giving. Welcome
Gotham's own Santa Claus, Max Shreck.

17 INT. MAX'S OUTER OFFICE--NIGHT 17

Selina sullenly scribbles "Obey" on a post-it pad which she then sticks on the edge of her computer beside other girlishly masochistic post-its like "Don't 'get' jokes" and "Save it for your diary".

Selina pouts at the sound of the cheering crowd. A phone rings. She just stares at it. Then past it, to a legal pad sheet with the word SPEECH scribbled atop it. Selina pops to it in a panic.

SELINA

Darn. Darn.

18 EXT. THE STAGE--NIGHT 18

Max, the Mayor, and his staff proudly hurl small wrapped boxes into the eager audience. Max then stops to unzip a hand-size portfolio--it is empty. He gives a calm, clenched-teeth hiss to Chip.

MAX

Forgot. My. Speech. Remind me to take it out on Selina.

(MORE)

18 CONTINUED:

18

(into mike)

"Santa Claus"? 'Fraid not. I'm just a poor schmoe who got a little lucky, and sue me if I want to give a little back. I only wish I could hand out more than just expensive baubles. I wish I could hand out World Peace, and Unconditional Love, wrapped in a big bow.

19 INT. SEWER BELOW THE STAGE--NIGHT

19

The umbrella closes to reveal a POV of the babbling Max up through a stage-side sewer grate.

A RASP

Oh, but you can. Oh, but you will ...

His clammy flipper rises up, barely into the light, to flick open a rusted, ornately battered time-piece. One minute till.

20 EXT. GOTHAM PLAZA--NIGHT

20

A GARGANTUAN CHRISTMAS PRESENT WITH A COLossal RED BOW is suddenly seen floating into the Plaza. Citizens turn their heads from the stage to gasp in wonder.

Behind The Adorable Little Girl, Alfred reaches a parked Wayne Rolls-Royce and tosses in his present. He pulls off a ticket from the windshield with a huff, then looks out to the big present. Warily.

The alarms on the clocks in the Batman Store window go off at seven o' clock.

21 EXT. THE STAGE--NIGHT

21

The Mayor admires the Mega-gift. Grudgingly:

MAYOR

Great idea.

MAX

(mystified)

But not mine...

Max drops a present. It lands atop the sewer grate below.

22 INT. THE SEWER--NIGHT 22
 Angle on a shadow of the face of the man one calls
 PENGUIN. *

PENGUIN

Deck the halls.

23 EXT. THE PLAZA--NIGHT 23
 One can make out motorcycle wheels churning beneath the box and even some moving feet when suddenly the front of the box tears open. With a rebel yell, a GANG of SURLY CARNIVAL DENIZENS WITH RED TRIANGLES TATTOOED OVER
 THEIR LEFT EYES blitzkrieg the crowd, which includes Alfred, who protectively bolts toward the Little Girl.

A STRONGMAN COVERED IN TATTOOS emerges out of the box to slam the All-American Dad and swipe his Batman sled, which Strongman then uses to hammer down Santa Claus.

24 EXT. BEFORE THE DEPARTMENT STORE--NIGHT 24
 Oblivious, Selina rushes out with Max's speech.
 A TRIO OF SCOWLING BIKERS buzz her to the ground.

The Batman sled crunches against a police windshield. A disgruntled COMMISSIONER GORDON sputters out into his radio.

GORDON

What are you waiting for? The Signal!

25 EXT. THE GOTHAM SKY--NIGHT 25
 THE RENOWNED BAT BEACON blazes onto the edge of the night.

26 INT. WAYNE MANOR--NIGHT 26
 The Bat Beacon can be seen through an elegant mansion window.
 Its reflection is picked up in an ornate mirror in the grand living room and then followed to another strategically placed mirror. The reflection glows against the face of a sitting-in-darkness Bruce Wayne.
 He moves out of the light.

27 INT. THE SEWER--NIGHT 27
 Through the grate bars, the beacon in the sky can be made out, accompanied by strange squawks.

28

EXT. THE PLAZA--NIGHT

28

A FIRE BREATHER smashes open a big hole in the Batman Store display window with his Fire-rod. He sticks his rod in his mouth, then bellows a cloud of flame onto the Batman merchandise.

Amid the chaos of whimpering victims and dropped shopping bags, a fleeing Ice Princess shoves an Elderly Woman to the ground.

29

EXT. THE STAGE--NIGHT

29

Monkeys with cap-pistols frolic on the shoulders of a man equipped with an organ-grinder-Gatling-gun, as he fires artillery into the Christmas tree, blasting off ornaments, cables, and lights. Max and the Mayor hit the deck.

ORGAN GRINDER

Take that, tannenbaum!

A FAT CLOWN leaps onto the stage with a DT O LY DRESSED DAME; who wears an assortment of knives, and a RAGGEDY SWORD SWALLOWER who chokes up an Excaliber.

KNIFETHROWER DAME

Relax. We just came for the guy who runs the show.

The Mayor bravely steps forward.

MAYOR

What do you want from me?

Laughing, the Sword Swallower pushes him off the stage.

SWORD SWALLOWER

Not you. Shreck.

Now Chip heroically stands.

CHIP

You'll have to go through me.

FAT CLOWN

All this courage. Goosebump-city.

Simultaneously the Knifethrower whip-throws a knife that grazes Chip's ear.

Dad! Save yourself!

Max has already dashed off the dais.

30

EXT./INT. BATMOBILE--NIGHT

30

The Batmobile rockets toward the viewer, the bat insignia reflecting off the windshield. It plows through the gargantuan "present," shredding it to pieces.

Three STILT-WALKERS are viciously kicking the crowd. *

BATMAN slams down a lever.

Twin blades sprout from the Batmobile's sides, like wings, to saw off the stilts, whose owners now crash down, face-first.

Out of slots, Batman fires a whooshing array of small, black, metal frisbees into the heads of some Carnival gangsters and Bikers.

Now he focuses upon the Tattooed Strongman, chasing Alfred and the Little girl.

Alfred looks to the oncoming Batmobile and knowingly ducks. A black frisbee savagely jettisons over his head, into the Tattooed Strongman's face, crumpling him to the ground. Alfred rises up to broadly beam at the passing Batmobile.

31

EXT. PLAZA SIDE STREET--NIGHT

31

*

Max huffs with growing confidence, into a less crowded sidestreet. He trots over a sewer grate.

32

INT. BENEATH THIS SIDE-STREET SEWER GRATE--NIGHT

32

Loud animalistic panting and splashing sounds are heard as we watch Max stamping across the grate.

33

EXT. THE PLAZA--NIGHT

33

Three Clowns spin and fire frantically at the charging Batmobile. One dives out of the way.

The other Two (one, a midget) slam atop the hood as Batman roars toward the Batman store and the Fire-breather blaspheming the display window.

33

CONTINUED:

33

The woozy hood-top clowns raise their guns toward the windshield, while the escaped Clown rains bullets against its back window.

Batman brakes the Batmobile. The Hoodtop Clowns sail into the stunned Firebreather and all three land on the merchandising.

Batman twists a square black Knob. A powerful STEEL JACK-TYPE DEVICE jets out the bottom of the Batmobile and lifts the vehicle up off the ground. The Batmobile does a sharp 180 degree spin. Batman re-twists the knob. The jack slams back up into the Batmobile.

The Exhaust of the spun-around Batmobile volcanoes toward the gaping Firebreather, fittingly setting him on fire, along with both clowns. The Batmobile thunders at the clown who'd escaped.

This clown grabs innocent bystander Selina Kyle. In the scuffle, a heel cracks off one of her shoes.

The blitzing Batmobile comes to a skidding halt. The Clown presses a sleek stun-gun to Selina's neck.

SELINA

I probably shouldn't bring this up, but this is a very serious pair of shoes you ruined. Couldn't you have just been a prince and broken my jaw? My body will heal, but this was the last pair left in my size.

CLOWN

All these innocent bystanders and I had to pick you ...SHUT UP!

The Batmobile door whooshes open. Batman pounds straight at the Clown, an eerie force of nature. An ACROBAT somersaults into his face. Batman casually punches his lights out.

CLOWN

Listen up, Mister Man-bat, you take one step closer and I'll...

BATMAN

Sure.

Batman gunslingers out his grapple speargun. The wired hook rockets past the Clown's jerking away head and into the wall behind him.

CLOWN
(jeers)
Nice shot, Mister...

Batman yanks the wire, ripping off a chunk of wall that smacks the back of the clown's head. As he staggers:

SELINA
You shouldn't have left the other heel.

With her surviving heel, she kicks the Crumpled Clown's knee, knocking him and the stun gun to the ground.

Batman bends to his vanquished foe. Touches the triangle tattoo over his left eye, as Selina gushes:

SELINA
Wow. The Batman--or is it just "Batman"? Your choice. Of course.

Batman finds himself staring at the lovely young woman. For a moment, time freezes.

BATMAN
Gotta go.

In a wink, he's a half block away, being schmoozed by Commissioner Gordon. Onlookers CHEER.

It's just Selina alone here with her unconscious attacker.

SELINA
Well. That was ... very brief. Like most men in my life. What men? Well, there's you, but ... you need therapy.

She kneels beside the Clown. Picks up his stun-gun. Zaps him, jolting his body a bit.

SELINA
Electroshock therapy. What a bargain -- we both feel better.

34

EXT. PLAZA SIDE STREET--NIGHT

34

Hearing the sounds of cheers, Max smiles and stops atop a manhole to wipe his brow. Suddenly, the manhole cracks in half, sucking down a wailing Max. The manhole flaps back up into a normal, seemingly untouched position.

35

EXT. THE PLAZA--NIGHT

The Commissioner hustles to keep pace with Batman.

GORDON

Thanks for saving the day, Batman.
 (good natured huff)
 Thanks for making the rest of us look like a bunch of dolts ... I'm afraid the Red Triangle Circus Gang is back.

BATMAN

We'll see...

Now the Mayor bustles up.

MAYOR

The Caped Crusader. We don't deserve you! They almost made off with our mover and shaker, Max
 Shreck. But --

Belatedly it dawns on the Mayor. He looks around, blinking.

MAYOR

Where is that insufferable sonovabitch?

Then he turns back, to Batman. But Batman has vanished, too.

INT. SELINA'S APARTMENT--LATER THAT NIGHT

36

Selina enters, hanging up her winter coat and calling out.

SELINA

Honey, I'm home.
 (then)
 Oh, I forgot. I'm not married.

She wearily laughs at her private joke, then takes in her '90's quaint, "feminine" apartment -- pink carpet, cute linoleum, a neon "HELLO THERE!" on the wall --

*

-- a meticulous doll house, a quilt-in-progress, a pretty embarrassing assortment of stuffed animals and a Christmas tree.

Through her open window, a feisty, beautiful CAT slinks in.

SELINA

Miss Kitty ... Back from more sexual escapades you refuse to share ... not that I'd ever pry.
 Drink your dinner.

She sets out a dish of milk. Miss Kitty comes over, purring.

SELINA

What did you just purr? "How can anyone be so pathetic?" Yes, to you I seem pathetic. But I'm a working girl, gotta pay the rent. Maybe if you were chipping in, 'stead of stepping out ...

She passes childhood PHOTOS of a younger happier Selina on a trampoline, on a horse, on a mountain face ... then turns on her answering machine.

As it plays, she opens her Murphy bed, turns down the covers ...

MOM'S VOICE

(stern)

Selina dear. It's your mother. Just calling to say hello --

SELINA

Yeah right, "but" --

MOM'S VOICE

-- "but" I'm disappointed you're not coming home for Christmas. I was looking forward to discussing your life. To hearing just why you insist upon languishing in Gotham City as some lowly secretary --

SELINA

Lowly "assistant". Thank you.

She fast forwards to:

LAME BOYFRIEND'S VOICE

Selina, about that Christmas getaway we planned? I'll be going alone. Doctor Shaw says I need to be my own person now, and not an appendage.

SELINA

(scoffs)

Some appendage.

As she fast forwards:

SELINA

The party never stops on Selina Kyle's answering machine ... Guess I should've let him win that last racquetball game.

Onward. Miss Kitty compassionately snuggles beside her, as:

SELINA'S OWN VOICE

Hi, Selina, this is yourself calling. To remind you, honey, that you have to come all the way back to the office unless you remembered to bring home the Bruce Wayne file, because the meeting's on Wednesday and Max Slavemaster will freak if every pertinent fact is not at your lovely tapered fingertips.

Selina fires her stun gun at the answering machine, jolting it off. Again, she slaps her forehead with her hand. Then goes to her closet, puts her coat back on. As she exits:

SELINA

The file! You stupid corn dog.
Corn dog. Deep fried! Corn dog ...

37 EXT. THE OLD GOTHAM ZOO--NIGHT

37

The viewer is suddenly wafting over the creepy panorama of an abandoned Zoo Expo Area. *

We whoosh downward to a DECREPIT "ARCTIC WORLD" PAVILION, and through its Colossal, cracked Observation window. *

38 INT. PENGUIN'S LAIR--NIGHT

38

We continue to squirm down the walls of the lair where Penguin found his home, before settling to a tight glimpse of Max Shreck slumped over the edge of a block of ice. *

Max teeters up into consciousness, glancing to his side to see a grand Emperor Penguin curiously staring at him. Max yelps. The Penguin yelps back. *

Calming himself, Max turns to face forward, then screams again. The block of ice is revealed to be a strange conference table populated by the Red Triangle Circus Gang, including: a disturbingly Ratty Poodle and its matching owner, a Ratty POODLE LADY; the Organ Grinder and his two monkeys; the Tattooed Strongman; the Sword Swallower; the Knifethrowing Dame; the Fat and Thin Clowns; the three Stiltwalkers; Flame, the Snakewoman; and four ND acrobats.

An awesome, SEEDY ELECTRICAL GENERATOR wired to a massive air conditioner, wheezes sparks with a malevolent hum.

The gang's snickering now fades into respectful silence.

Actual penguins of every size heedlessly horseplay in the icy moat. Now we hear the sound of a drip. Max turns...The drip is seen thudding against an umbrella improbably held by one of the penguins. As he emerges from the pack, we see that he wears a grimy coat. Then he flaps down his umbrella, revealing his face for the first time in glory. It is not a penguin but The Penguin.

PENGUIN

Hi.

Max launches into a face-contorting wail, but his shock prevents him from emitting actual sound. He closes his mouth then tries another Munchesque wail to no aural effect.

PENGUIN

I believe the word you're looking for is...A-A-A-A-A-G-H!

Then:

PENGUIN

Actually this is all just a bad dream. You're home in bed. Heavily sedated, resting comfortably, and dying from the carcinogens you've personally spewed in a lifetime of profiteering. Tragic irony or poetic justice? You tell me.

MAX

My god ... it's true. The Penguin-Man of the sewers ... Please, don't h--

PENGUIN

Quiet. Max. What do you think.

PENGUIN

We have something in common, we two ... We're both perceived as monsters. But, somehow, you're a well-respected monster, and I am... to date... not.

There is a small arsenal of umbrellas at his feet. He picks up another one: it shoots knives.

MAX

(mustering courage)

Frankly I feel that's a bum rap. I'm a businessman. Tough, yes. Shrewd, okay. But that doesn't make me a mon--

Penguin cuts him off with a CACKLE.

PENGUIN

Don't embarrass yourself, Max. I know all about you. What you hide, I discover. What you put in your toilet, I place on my mantlepiece. Get the picture?

Penguin is playing with a third umbrella. He begins to twirl it at Max -- it's got a bright spiral pattern, like one of those cheesy "hypno-disks" from the backs of comic books.

MAX

What, is that supposed to "hypnotize" me?

PENGUIN

No, just give you a splitting headache.

MAX

Well it's not working.

Penguin "fires" the umbrella at Max -- a DEAFENING gunshot. Max flies back in horror: Am I hit?

PENGUIN

You big baby! Just blanks. Would I go to all this trouble tonight just to kill you? No, I have an entirely "other" purpose.

Suddenly Penguin is solemn, subdued -- is that a tear in his eye?

PENGUIN

I'm ready, Max. I've been lingering down here too long. I'm starting to like the smell ... bad sign. It's high time for me to ascend. To re-emerge. With your help, your know-how, your savvy, your acumen. I wasn't born in the sewer, you know. I come from ...

He looks up, at a place far above the sewers.

PENGUIN

Like you. And, like you, I want some respect ... a recognition of my basic humanity ... an occasional breeze ...

Even the Circus Gang looks touched. Max stays poker-faced. *

PENGUIN

Most of all, I want to find out who I am. By finding my parents. Learning my "human" name. Simple stuff that the good people of Gotham take for granted.

MAX

(boy, is he tough)
And exactly why am I gonna help you?

On cue, one of the Carny Creeps hands Penguin a grimy Christmas stocking with "Max" disturbingly stitched on it.

PENGUIN

Well, let's start with a batch of toxic waste from your "clean" textile plant. There's a whole lagoon of this crud, in the back...

He pulls a rusty thermos from the stocking and, from the thermos, pours some goo onto the tabletop, which sizzles.

MAX

Yawn. That coulda come from anywhere.

PENGUIN

What about the documents that prove you own half the firetraps in Gotham?

MAX

If there were such documents -- and that is not an admission -- I would have seen to it they were shredded.

Another Carny Goon hands over a sheaf of papers -- they've been shredded, but carefully pieced together with tape.

PENGUIN

A lot of tape and a little patience make all the difference. By the way, how's Fred Adkins, your old partner?

MAX

(rattled)

Fred. Fred? He's ... actually he's been on an extended vacation, and --

From under the table, Penguin pulls out a discolored human hand and happily waves it at a whitened Max.

PENGUIN

(ventriloquist)

Hi, Max. Remember me? I'm Fred's hand.

(leans forward)

Want to greet any other body parts? Or stroll down memory lane, with torn-up kinky Polaroids? Failed urine tests? Remember, Max ... You flush it, I flaunt it.

Max sits here -- chastened, thoughtful, considering all the incriminating evidence before him. Now he manages a smile.

MAX

You know what, Mr. ... Penguin-Sir? I think perhaps I could help orchestrate a little welcome-home scenario for you. And once we're both back home, perhaps we can help each other out ...

PENGUIN

You won't regret this, Mr. Shreck.

He puts out a hand. Max shakes. Penguin abruptly pulls his flipper away, leaving Max holding "Fred"'s severed paw.

The Carny Crew booms in laughter. Max offers a weak giggle.

38A EXT. GOTHAM PLAZA - NEXT DAY

38A

The Mayor, surrounded by TV news-cams, grimly tours the scene of last night's rampage. Accompanied by his Wife, holding their BABY (great photo op) and an appropriately solemn Max.

MAYOR

(to reporters)

I tell you this, not just as an official, but as a husband and father ... last night's eruption of lawlessness will never hap--

*

Suddenly from behind the ravaged Tree, an ACROBAT-THUG somersaults at the Mayor's Wife, and snatches the Baby! Then leaps onto the platform and holds the baby up, like an Oscar.

ACROBAT-THUG

I'm not one for speeches, so I'll just say "Thanks".

The Mayor lunges for the attacker and gets pivot-kicked to the ground. The THUG races through a frightened crowd --

-- and falls into an open manhole. As bystanders gather, and try to peer into the darkness below, we HEAR:

THUG'S VOICE

Hey! Oww!

Now the THUMPS of someone taking a merciless p ounding. And the SCREAMS of the Thug. Now he comes scrambling out of the manhole, dazed and empty-handed ... and madly dashes away ...

Next, amid cries of "Stand back!" and "My God, look!" the bystanders back off, revealing the spectacle of the Mayor's tiny child levitating -- as if by magic -- from the depths of purgatory. But no, it's not magic ... it's ... Penguin! He holds the babe aloft in one yucky but powerful flipper.

This morning's miracle... Gotham will never forget.

42B INSERT - TV SCREEN

42B

The rest of the scene in Gotham Plaza plays out on video:

Now Penguin is fully out above the pavement, so we can see how he'd miraculously floated up ... on a big Rubber Duck attached to a tall scissor-lift. As CAMERA ZOOMS IN:

ANCHORMAN'S VOICE

That's him: The shadowy, much rumored penguin-man of the sewers, arisen. Until today, he'd been another tabloid myth, alongside the Abominable Snowman and the Loch Ness Monster ...

The Mayor's wife snatches up her baby in tears. Then, fighting nausea, she embraces the modest, abashed Penguin -- whose eyes heartbreakingly blink in the unaccustomed light. *

ANCHORMAN'S VOICE

But now this odd little ~~man~~-beast can proudly stand tall, ~~alongside~~ our own legendary Batman.

The Mayor tries to shake Penguin's hand ... but somehow Max Shreck is standing between them, patting Penguin's back.

ANCHORMAN'S VOICE

Gotham's leading citizen, Max Shreck, had been on a fact-finding mission in Gotham Plaza...

Shreck whispers something in Penguin's pointy little ear
-- c'mon, you're a hero, it's your moment. Embarrassed, but -- aw, what the hell -- Penguin takes a little bow. *

Gotham Plaza erupts. "Joy To The World" PEALS over the

42D INSERT - TV SCREEN

Penguin is in Gotham Plaza, doing a live interview. Shabby but proud in his tattered cloak, shielding his eyes with a small, touchingly frayed umbrella from the glare of the studio lights. He haltingly, earnestly tells CAMERA:

PENGUIN

All I want in return ... is the chance to ... to find my folks. Find out who they are ... and, thusly, who I am ... and then, with my parents, just ... try to understand why ... why they did what I guess they felt they had to do, to a child who was born looking a little ... different. A child who spent his first Christmas, and many since, in a sewer.

Alfred murmurs his agreement: that would be nice.

AGGRESSIVE REPORTER

42G INT. HALL OF RECORDS - DAY

42G

We find Penguin alone in the vast, silent Main Hall. Seated at an enormous table. Surrounded by files marked "Birth Certificates" ... hundreds of thousands of birth records of Gotham's citizens, past and present ...

... and Penguin is patiently checking each certificate, "thumbing" through them all with his slimy left flipper...

His right flipper is wrapped around a pen. Every so often, Penguin pauses, then jots down another name, on a legal pad. So singleminded in his search, he doesn't hear the muffled CRIES of his name, through the windows, from reporters ...

Surprise, that's where he's cruising.

The one light inside still burns, throwing a long shadow of the strange, hunched-over Penguin -- at his desk, resolutely doing his research.

In front of the building are a Shreck Guard and a Policeman. Both slumped on the front stairs, both snoozing.

42K INT. BATMOBILE - LATE NIGHT

As Batman drives around the Hall, checking the silent street for trouble, then surveying the single lit window, again:

BATMAN

Funny you should ask, Alfred.
Maybe I am a bit concerned.

42L EXT. CEMETERY - DAY

42L

A MOB of PRESS, MORBID CURIOSITY-SEEKERS, even some overnight PENGUIN-GROUPIES, try to muscle their way into this grand, well-tended boneyard for the rich and expired. Gotham's own Forest Lawn, and a flying wedge of the city's FINEST, arms interlocked, keeps out the rabble, as ...

The Penguin, in threadbare black, waddles past the manicured headstones to the twin markers etched with the names Tucker Cobblepot and Esther Cobblepot.

Now, reaching his parents' final resting places, he falls to his knees -- not very far to go. Then plucks two wilted old roses from his sleeve, and places one upon each plot.

From behind the police barricade, camera motor-drives WHIRR. Not an instant of this drama is being lost to posterity. A Penguin groupie faints. Around her, other girls pick up the cue -- some wail, others swoon.

After a moment of silent contemplation, Penguin rises again. Mournfully shambles back to the crowded cemetery entrance.

AGGRESSIVE REPORTER

AGGRESSIVE REPORTER

Around him, the crowd gasps in shock at such nerve.

But Penguin doesn't look shocked, merely surprised. As the flashbulbs flash (Penguin doesn't cringe -- he's already used to this media mishegas) he pensively twirls his umbrella and, in a reasonable facsimile of a soft, sweet squawk:

He turns to Alfred: what do you make of that? Alfred shrugs.

But Bruce is already engrossed in the next article onscreen.

BRUCE

"... Circus folded its tents yesterday, perhaps forever. After numerous reports of missing children in several towns, police have closed down the Red Triangle's fairgrounds. However, at least one freak show performer vanished before he could be questioned."

MAX

Working late? I'm touched.

SELINA

(under her breath)

No, I am.

(then, officious)

Yes, I'm boning up for your Bruce Wayne meeting in the morning. I pulled all the files on the proposed power plant, and Mr. Wayne's hoped-for investment... I've studied up on all of it ... I even opened the protected files and --

Max looks surprised.

MAX

Why, how industrious. And how did you open protected files, may I ask?

SELINA

Well I figured that your password was "Finster." Your Pomeranian. And it was. And it's all very interesting, though a bit on the technical side, I mean about how the power plant is a power plant in name only since in fact it's gonna be one big giant...

Max encouragingly nods: go on. She consults her notes.

SELINA

Big giant capacitor. And that, instead of generating power it'll sort of be --

(checks notes again)

-- sucking power, from Gotham City, and storing it ... stockpiling it, sort of? Which, unless I'm being dense, is a novel approach, I'd say.

MAX

And who ... would you say this to?

Selina is suddenly a tad less certain of her position, as Max lights a match, and sets her notepad afire. She swallows.

SELINA

Well ... um ... nobody --?

Mas drops the charred notepad and moves toward her.

MAX

... Where did curiosity get the cat?

SELINA

I'm no cat. I'm just an assistant.
A secretary --

MAX

And a very, very good one.

Miss Kitty, summoned by her desperate owner, now appears ... leading cats of every shape, color and demeanor from every direction. Selina's cat crawls up onto Selina's blouse and begins to breathe into her mouth in an eerie feline C.P.R. ballet.

A Siamese whispers in Selina's ear. So-cute Tabbies snuggle against the soles of her feet. A scraggly Tom viciously bites her finger. Selina's eyes fly open.

47

INT. SELINA'S APARTMENT--STILL LATE THAT NIGHT

47

Battered, bloodied, and clutching Miss Kitty, Selina re-enters her apartment. She is the malevolent antidote to her poignantly pleasant previous self. She stares in unmoving, but torrid self-contemplation. Then she explodes into vivid montage:

With a black spray paint can in each hand, Selina attacks everything pink and eggshell--carpet, couch, wallpaper.

With uncoiled wire coat-hangers, she sets about transforming her Murphy bed into something weird and painful.

She flings her childhood pictures off the wall into a mini-bonfire (that includes her sad Christmas tree) set up on her kitchen-nook table.

She lustily shoves a stuffed unicorn into her garbage disposal. The carnage of other ex-cute toy creatures are spread about.

Miss Kitty races about, purring in delight.

With a sewing needle, Selina repeatedly stabs her doll's house, annihilating the micro-detailed rooms. In close-up, the rooms seem to be invaded by a giant silver missile.

Next, with the same needle, we see her stitching together something slinky, stretchy and black. *

*

Then she assaults her feel-good neon sign. With bare fists, she punches out the last letter of the first word and the first letter of the second, turning "HELLO THERE!" into "HELL HERE!"

48 INT. SELINA'S APARTMENT--THE NEXT MORNING--DAY 48

As the sun rises through the windows, Selina sits in a lotus position on the floor of her very redone apartment. She is wearing her sinful black hand-sewn cat-suit. She slides a pristine bowl of milk to her content cat and speaks in a sultry voice. Her Catwoman voice.

Happy X-mas, hunk. You may approach.

Intrigued but scared, Chip takes a cautious step -- onto a square of carpet that was placed over an opened gravity-heat grate ...

A half-dozen power cords are snaking into the grate, and electric knife-sharpeners and egg-beaters, etc., gyrate and grind down here ... that peculiar CHURNING sound ... Chip nearly loses a foot ... he's quietly freaking...

JOSH

Keep the umbrella! Works for you!

He sticks a gold cigarette holder in Penguin's mouth. As

JEN

I'm Jen. Stand still while I slip

She's tugging cute stuffed Mickey Mouse-y gloves over the Penguin's fingers, and trying to suppress her gag reflex.

JEN

Our research tells us that voters

Josh, meantime, queasily fingers Penguin's tattered

JOSH

Not a lot of reflective surfaces

MAX

You're right, we missed the regularly scheduled election. But elected officials can be recalled, impeached, given the boot! Think of Nixon, Meacham, Barry ... Then think of you, Oswald Cobblepot, filling the void.

Penguin nods. He's thinking about something quite like that.

PENGUIN

Me and that "Jen" chick... maybe we could take a tumble...

He furtively glances over at Jen, swabbing Josh's blood.

PENGUIN

Wonder if it's worth my time.

We need signatures. To overturn the ballot. I can supply those, Oswald.

PENGUIN

I could teach her my "French flipper" trick...

With a simultaneous howl, the band of thugs charge at Batman from every direction. Batman presses a button on his Gameboy that causes batarang arms to sprout out. Batman heaves the super-batarang.

The super-batarang whizzes with wild concentration, pinballing from Creep skull to Creep skull, slamming them all, including a lunging gang member behind Batman, to the ground.

But now, as it wobbles back to Batman, the Ratty Poodle leaps up and snatches the batarang in his rotten teeth. The Poodle, led by the Poodle Lady, scurries off.

My mistake.

Penguin sits her back down.

PENGUIN

Are you perchance a registered voter? I'm also a mayoral prospect.

CATWOMAN

I have but one pet cause, today: Ban The Bat.

PENGUIN

Oh, him again. He's already history -- check it out.

Penguin gestures at the wall ... detailed drawings and blueprints of the Batmobile, insi- - out.

DT PENGUIN

We're gonna disassemble his spiffy old Batmobile, then reassemble it as an H-bomb on wheels. Capiche? Yesterday's victor is tomorrow's vapor.

CATWOMAN

(shakes her head)

He'd have more power as a martyr. No, to destroy Batman we must first turn him into what he hates most. Meaning, us.

There's an array of closed umbrellas, propped. Penguin picks a disturbingly phallic one, strokes Catwoman's thigh with it.

PENGUIN

Y'mean frame him?

You're quick. Mayor Cobblepot.

Catwoman gulps, nervous -- then retaliates by shooting her paw into the birdcage. She pulls out the canary and shoves it in her mouth. Penguin leaps up, frantic. *

No, don't hurt Gertrude! I was just -- whattaya call it -- "flirting."

Catwoman coolly spits out the canary, which flutters off.

PENGUIN

Thanks. Jeez. Not used to th- man-woman, cat-mouse business. Generally the babes flock to me, I tell 'em take a number.

CATWOMAN

You're off the hook, Ozzie. But Batman is decidedly not.

She drifts over to Penguin and starts to vamp him, gliding her talons over his grotesque, sweating features.

PENGUIN'S VOICE

I challenge the Mayor to re-light the tree in Gotham Plaza, tomorrow night.

90H INT. WAYNE MANOR LIVING ROOM--NIGHT

DT

90H

Alfred serves Bruce his supper, as Bruce impassively watches "Oswald Cobblepot" at campaign headquarters, on local news.

PENGUIN

(on TV)

He must prove that under his administration, we can carry on our proud traditions without fear.
Not that I have any faith in the Mayor... but I pray, at least, that Batman will be there, to preserve the peace.

Alfred notices his boss quietly seething.

ALFRED

Sir. Shall we change the channel to a program with some dignity and class? "The Love Connection," perhaps?

Bruce quietly tells the preening image on the screen:

BRUCE

You're very subtle, "Oswald."

Then moodily clicks OFF the TV.

91 EXT. THE SHOPS OF GOTHAM PLAZA--DAY

91

NAIVELY GIDDY CHILDREN and GUARDEDLY AMUSED PARENTS browse a damaged but not defeated line of Plaza shops. Father, Mother, and Boy--A FAMILY HIGHLY REMINISCENT OF YOUNG BRUCE WAYNE AND HIS DOOMED PARENTS--drift to a magically intact toy store window.

*
*

Bruce Wayne sidles up beside them and sadly contemplates the cozy menage. He turns and looks, not through the window, but at it, at the reflection of himself.

In the corner of the window reflection is a reflection of Selina Kyle standing across the street. Her back turned, she is also looking toward a store window. Noticing her, Bruce turns from his window.

92 EXT. THE STORE ACROSS THE STREET--DAY

Selina grimly stares at her reflection. And asks herself:

SELINA

Why are you doing this?

Bruce touches her shoulder, startling her.

BRUCE

Selina. Hi. Didn't mean to --

DT

SELINA

Scare me? No, actually, I was just scaring myself ...

BRUCE

I don't see how ... Anyway, it's a treat to find you out in the world, away from Ebenezer Shreck.

SELINA

(halfhearted)

Treat to be here.

They begin to stroll, together.

BRUCE

What's the story? Holiday blues?

*

Selina nods at a newsstand as they pass it: blazing headlines that read "BATMAN BLOWS IT," "IT'S A CAT-ASTROPHE" and "MEE-OUCH!"

SELINA

The news these days ... weird.
People looking to superheroes for their peace of mind, and blaming their problems on super-villains
... instead of themselves, or their spouses at least.

BRUCE

And it's not even accurate ... I mean, "Batman Blows It"? The guy probably prevented millions in property damage.

SELINA

(nods)

I heard on TV, "Catwoman is thought to weigh 140 pounds." How do these hacks sleep at night?

In b.g., Police cordon off the Plaza. Workers hoist signs that read "The Relighting of the Tree, Tonight at Seven!"

SELINA

You're not coming to that, ~~are~~<sup>DI</sup> you? "The Relighting of the Tree" thing?

BRUCE

I wouldn't be caught dead. No, it's probably how I would be caught. The Mayor stupidly took Cobblepot's bait --

SELINA

-- and it's gonna be a hot time on the cold town tonight.

Bruce glances at her, surprised.

BRUCE

You almost sound enthusiastic.

SELINA

(shrugs)

I detest violence, but ...
Christmas complacency can be a downer, too.

BRUCE

(chuckles)

You've got a dark side, Selina
Kyle.

SELINA

No darker than yours, Bruce.

BRUCE

(muses)

Well, I'm... braver at night, if that's what you mean...

SELINA

(surprised, glances over)

Yeah? Me too...

They pass the stage, where the Ice Princess is being re-briefed on the difficult job of pressing the gaily multi-colored button whose wires lead to the tree.

BRUCE

... Maybe we'll watch it on TV.

SELINA

(brightens)

"We"? You and...

BRUCE

(thinks)

No, that'd be me and me.

Is that what I said?

Now they both laugh. Selina tries to get serious again.

SELINA

Well? Was "Vicki" right? About your difficulty with duality?

BRUCE

If I said yes, then you might think me a Norman Bates, or a Ted Bundy type ... and then you might not let me kiss you.

Selina responds by leaning forward and planting a wet one on Bruce's mouth, that lingers. When their lips finally part:

SELINA

It's the so-called "normal" guys who always let you down. Sickos never scare me. At least they're committed.

BRUCE

Ah ... Then you've come to the right lonely mansion.

They fall into another kiss. Now Selina starts to undo

142 EXT. ANOTHER GOTHAM STREET--NIGHT 142

A pack of Gothamites flee in different directions, leaving a stranded old lady immobile with fear. The Batmobile spectacularly angles right at her. She's a bunny paralyzed by the headlights. *

143 INT. CAMPAIGN BUS--NIGHT 143

Penguin licks his lips as the Batmobile zooms toward her.

PENGUIN

Helpless old lady at twelve o'clock high. *

He presses down on the accelerator.

144 INT./EXT. THE BATMOBILE--NIGHT 144

Batman yanks open a ceiling panel, revealing another myriad of wires and fuses. He stares with harsh concentration. He pulls out a round fuse.

The Batmobile squeaks to a sudden dead halt, centimeters before the vibrating then fleeing old lady. *

146 EXT. GOTHAM STREET--NIGHT 146

The steel jack-type device again explodes out of the bottom of the Batmobile, lifting it up off the ground. But instead of going into a simple, suave 180 twist, the car convulses into a Tasmanian Devil spin that revolves it at mind-roasting speed. A battalion of police cars surround it. Officers jump out and begin firing.

DICTEL - 11/27/91 81.

147 INT. THE BATMOBILE--NIGHT 147

Penguin's image on the spinning screen surreally cackles....

148 INT. CAMPAIGN BUS--NIGHT 148

Penguin twists the Square knob some more, as he squawks:

PENGUIN

Ya gotta admit ... I've played

149 EXT./INT. THE BATMOBILE--NIGHT 149

Then he kicks and tears open a panel on the floor. There's a thick tangle of wires and spinning gears down here. Batman bravely plunges his glove through the mess, pounding out a hole through the Batmobile's gleaming black skin...

Looking up at the underside of the Batmobile. we see Batman reach down through the hole and find a gang's Beacon Rod.

He snaps it in half.

The jack is sucked back up and the Batmobile breaks out of its cartoon swirl and rockets between two police cars, smashing a third as it speeds off.

150 INT. CAMPAIGN BUS--NIGHT 150

Frustrated, Penguin pounds the controls.

 THE POLICE screech behind them.

POLICEMAN

 He'll never fit!

168 INT./EXT. THE BATMOBILE--NIGHT 168
 The Batmobile streaks closer to the building. The engines continue to fire.
 Batman sparks two wires together. The windshield wipers come on.

BATMAN
 (gently puzzled)
 That's funny...

The buildings loom before the windshield.

BATMAN

 Now I'm a little worried....Oh.

Batman connects two wires.

169 EXT. BATMOBILE--NIGHT 169
 The sides of the Batmobile break off and clang to the ground and the wheels of the car remarkably contort in a single-file roller blade configuration, leaving only a sleek missile of a car that smoothly darts between the two buildings.

MAX

Max trails off. Penguin is giving him that "my nose could be gushing blood" look.

PENGUIN

He didn't even lose a limb, an eyeball ... bladder control ..

MAX

Point is, listen to them. They've lost faith in old symbols. They're ready to bond with you, the icon of the future. If it works, don't fix it...

He fairly pushes the grumpy Penguin onto a platform.

MAX

We'll celebrate tonight, at my annual Max-squerade ball. Shreck and Cobblepot, the visionary alliance.

Penguin takes the mike, looking grouchy and uninspired.

Down in front, a shameless, toothsome Cobblepot-Groupie flashes major cleavage, as though Penguin were a pop star.

This heartens Penguin. He quickly rises to the occasion.

PENGUIN

(booming squawk)

When it came time to ensure the safety of our city, did the Mayor have a plan? No, he relied on a man. A "bat" man.

PENGUIN

A ticking time bomb of a costumed freak who finally exploded last night, spraying this city with shrapnel of shame!

Bruce rises. Rolls up a sleeve as he moves to his aquarium. Sticks in his arm, puts two fingers through the window of a miniature Wayne Manor. Fish swarm his wrist...

ALFRED

I'm less worried about this ghastly grotesque... more concerned about repairing the Batmobile. It's not as though we can simply bring it to any old Joe's Body Shop. Is it, sir?

Bruce pulls out a key. And laughs.

BRUCE

Hey, who let Vicki Vale into the Batcave? I'm sitting there working, I turn around, it's like, "Oh hi, Vick, c'mon in."

Then on to a medieval Iron Maiden set in a corner across the room. He muses:

BRUCE

Selina ... more facets than Vicki, huh? Funny, but sort of mysterious...

BRUCE

"Affair" ... yes, maybe ... if she ...

Penguin is still posturing, on a large SCREEN down here.

PENGUIN

You ask, am I up here for personal glory? Ha ... I toiled for many years in happy obscurity, beneath your boulevards ... No, the glory I yearn to recapture, is the Glory of Gotham ...!

Alfred, all the while, is manning his own console. He's punched in a command, "Find Frequency", which quickly brings up the read-out "Frequency Found". His next typed command, "Jam Frequency" soon yields the read-out "Frequency Jammed."

Alfred nods to Bruce: ~~time~~ to play. Bruce presses Play.

PENGUIN

As he docks his Duck, the remaining members of the Red Triangle Circus Gang straggle into the lair through a tunnel of Snow and Ice. The Thin Clown pops into his face. *

He gestures at a brown-ish gurgling subterranean lake.

PENGUIN

How do I lure 'em in, you ask?

He pops one of the umbrellas at Max, who flinches.

PENGUIN

Little "Pied Penguin" action...

The umbrella is wickedly charming... open, it's a mini-merry-go-round, playing the "Penguin Theme" in a hauntingly childlike rinky-dink style. Penguin shows, with a happy prance, how he'll use it to lead the kids to their doom.

Penguin stands in front of a screen, watching his army waddle down the street. Then gleefully rubs his hands as the Fat Clown starts the countdown, off a big clock:

The vanguard penguin division stops. Gotham Plaza, heavily populated, looms ahead. As one, the penguins bend forward, angling their bazookas for maximum destruction.

The last of the coordinates crackles over Alfred's headset.

215 INT. THE LAIR--NIGHT 215

Penguin is glued to the screens, elated at a Gotterdammerung that's only seconds away.

PENGUIN

Ah, Gotham... You wouldn't put me on a pedestal, so I'm laying you on a slab!

Meantime the Fat Clown is frantically punching the controls.

FAT CLOWN

Well, um... funny thing, your penguins... they're not responding to the launch command. Fact they're kind of turned around now... Like someone jammed our signal...

PENGUIN

But who could've ... <sup>DT</sup>no, don't say it.

FAT CLOWN

My lips are sealed.

Penguin punches up the controls so the image of Batman plowing through the sewers is spread out across the screens in Cinerama.

PENGUIN

I'm starting... just starting... to lose my temper, now.

217 EXT. GOTHAM PARK - NIGHT 217

The Penguin army advances, en masse. The Old Zoo looms in the distance.

Penguin steers his Duck for the stairs -- then rides it all the way up the stairs, and out of the lair.

Meantime Max reaches out and grabs a key off the Fat Clown's key-ring, releasing himself. Then creeps out of his cage. He pauses to swipe the gun from the Fat Clown's holster and stashes it in his back pocket. Then starts to dash off when a familiar cat 'o nine tails SNAPS into FRAME, coils around his ankle and drags him OFF-SCREEN.

218A

INT. SEWER - NIGHT

218A

As Batman thunders up the pipe toward the lair, he hears a BLEEP. The screen on his console shows a thermal image -- shaped like a duck -- heading for the surface.

Batman has just reached a fork in the sewer pipes. At the last second he spins the wheel, steering into the pipe that angles up.

Penguin grandly plows around a corner with a victorious laugh --

Simultaneously the Bat-boat comes crashing through the top of Arctic World --

Penguin stops laughing as he looks up and sees the Bat-boat in mid-air --

It crash-lands on top of Penguin's Rubber Duck!

A beat of silence. Stillness. Batman, dazed; pops open his cockpit and alights, looking for Penguin. For Penguin's corpse perhaps ... pinned inside his Rubber Duck ... when:

From out of frame, a shrill and frenzied Penguin springs at Batman! His legs wrapped around the Caped Crusader's neck, the beast savagely gouges (with his umbrella-tip) and pecks (with his beak)! Snarling, as he attacks:

PENGUIN

I think you're jealous that I'm a genuine freak, and you have to wear a mask!

Penguin jumps down, off Batman.

PENGUIN

But in the end all that counts, is:
Who's holding the umbrella?

He activates his umbrella -- a long blade protrudes. In response, Batman pulls out his weapon: a palm-sized multi-colored button (like the one that lit the Gotham Plaza Christmas tree). A stand-off. But now, over Batman's shoulder, Penguin sees:

Standing here -- what the hell are they doing here? -- his poker-faced Penguin commandos.

PENGUIN

My babies ...

Batman turns to look -- and Penguin lunges with his umbrella-sword. Batman swipes at it, dropping his button-weapon in the process.

Cackling, Penguin snatches it up. Aiming it at Batman, he vengefully presses the button.

Suddenly an insane family of bats billows out of breakaway panels in the Batboat and thunders straight at the Penguin.

PENGUIN

Ah, you brought your in-laws. I'm sure, once you get to know them --

Straightening up, Batman bashes Penguin's beak with his skull, drawing blood.

PENGUIN

But it all comes down to who's holding the umbrella -- am I right?

BATMAN

Partially. Did you drop this, Penguin?

He holds out a palm-sized version of the gaily multi-colored button that lit the Gotham Plaza Christmas Tree.

PENGUIN

(genuinely puzzled)
Seems familiar ... Where have I ...

BATMAN

Look closer.

He tosses the object. Penguin reflexively drops an umbrella to catch it with both flippers, in the process slapping down the button.

Suddenly, an insane family of bats billow out of break-away panels in the Batboat and thunder at the Penguin.

PENGUIN

CATWOMAN

Sorry, Max. A die for a die.

MAX

Batman does a slide down the grapple that ends in a graceful touchdown. Max crawls toward him.

MAX

Batman heaves a kick into Max that sends him sailing against the generator.

BATMAN

Wrong on both counts.

He tries to grab Max, but Catwoman makes a lunge for Batman's abdomen sending him reeling. He picks himself up, then, talking in a calming, soothing way:

BATMAN

Why are you doing this? Let's just take him to the police, then go home together ...

CATWOMAN

You killed me, Batman killed me, Penguin killed me. Three lives down. Got enough bullets to finish me off?

MAX

One way to find out?

He fires a shot, that rips into her arm. And another, that smashes into her leg. Still coming, she pulls off her hood.

SELINA

Four, five. Still alive.

Batman rips off his own mask and woozily holds his bleeding neck. He's on his knees, dizzy and weak ...

BRUCE

Max shoots her other leg and the hand holding the gun, blowing away the barrel. Selina's ~~left~~ <sup>right</sup> gripping a sparking gun-butt. She hobbles forward.

SELINA

Six, seven, all good girls go to ...

Max pulls the trigger. But he's shot his wad.

Catlike screams of joy waft out of the mysterious mist of wattage. *

BRUCE

Se-lin-a Kyle...

Bruce frantically searches the thickening mist... but finds only Max's body, not Selina. He stumbles back, as:

Penguin rises like a wraith behind him, soaking and bleeding and sweating. Wiping his brow and gasping for breath, he stumbles toward the shorted-out compressor, using his long, elegant umbrellas for support.

PENGUIN

He drops one umbrella. With his free flipper, Penguin vainly twiddles the singed dials. Nothing -- the unit's kaput. Fiery rubble continues to rain down on the lair, raising the temperature even higher. Penguin turns away in defeat from the busted air-conditioner. And sees:

A stone-faced Bruce/Batman standing here, pitilessly watching.

PENGUIN

Without the mask you're drop-dead handsome. So, drop dead.

*
*

With great effort, he raises his elegant umbrella. And fires it. No ... not quite. It's the merry-go-round.

PENGUIN

Shit. Picked the cute one.
Heat's gettin' to me ...

Penguin reaches down for the other umbrella ... the deadly one ... the one that Bruce/Batman is holding.

PENGUIN

Hey. You ... wouldn't blow away an endangered bird ...

He desperately tugs at his collar a la Rodney. His face is turning a deep, pre-coronary scarlet ...

Bruce/Batman wordlessly raises the umbrella and aims it between Penguin's eyes.

Penguin pivots. Starts waddling away. Huffing, puffing ...

PENGUIN

You wouldn't shoot me in the back ...
would'ya ..?

Bruce/Batman never takes the gun/umbrella off Penguin ...

Who is waddling, slower and with greater difficulty, toward the once-icy, now-nearly-melted moat.

PENGUIN

I'm overheated, is all ... I'll murder you, momentarily ...

With a last ounce of strength he pulls open his collar.

PENGUIN

But first, a cool drink ...

Penguin belongs to the ages.

A beat, then Bruce/Batman sets down the deadly umbrella and silently watches, slightly awed:

In death, as in birth, the Four Elder Gray Bellied Emperor penguins surround their fallen disciple. Then, like pallbearers, they lift Penguin's body with their beaks and mournfully bear him away, into darkness.
