DEFLECTS HIS AIM.

YRCANOS YELLS WITH RAGE
AS THE DOCTOR DISAPPEARS SAFELY AROUND THE CORNER)

My lady? What have you done?
Because of you, that vermin
still lives!

PERI: I couldn't help it.
The Doctor ... he wasn't always like that ...

CU VALEYARD
(C.U. VALEYARD)

VALEYARD: (V.O.) I suggest you always were just like that, my dear Doctor ...

326. 2J _____ /
CU DR VALEYARD: A toady. A coward. /
A turncoat!

(THE DOCTOR SHAKES

327. 5E _____ /
O/S 2-SHOT
FAV. VALEYARD

You were afraid that Crozier wanted to transplant the brain of the alien Kiv into your head. You said as much yourself. / The thought of that made you panic.

328. 2J _____ /
MCU DR

THE DOCTOR: I've told you - it was a ploy. I would never want to harm Peri. /

329. 5E _____ /
MCU VALEYARD

VALEYARD: But you've also admitted that you have no clear memory of the event. /

330. 2J _____ /
MCU DR

THE DOCTOR: I can recall some of it ... (FLUSTERED) Bits of it are beginning ... to bob back into my mind. /

331. 5E _____ /
MCU VALEYARD

VALEYARD: Oh, really.
Does any of your sudden and convenient recall agree with anything the court has already seen. /

332. 2J _____ /
CU DR

THE DOCTOR: No ... I mean yes ...
But the emphasis is all wrong.

(CAM 6 NEXT)

- 7/8 -

VALEYARD: And what does that mean?

THE DOCTOR: The events took place, but not quite as we've seen them. /

333. 6F
MCU INQUISITOR

INQUISITOR: (TO THE DOCTOR)
It occurs to me Doctor that your current, mental condition makes it very difficult for you to defend yourself. I would therefore suggest that this court be adjourned. /

334. 2J

THE DOCTOR: No! And I refute any implication that I'm barmy! /

335. 3F

INQUISITOR: (CONFUSED) Barmy?

VALEYARD: A rather imprecise Earth-slang word, Sagacity, implying psychiatric instability.

335 A. 1

INQUISITOR: Thank you, Valeyard.
(TO THE DOCTOR) No-one is impugning your sanity, Doctor. Merely suggesting your memory is a little faulty. /

336. 2J
MCU DR

THE DOCTOR: Nevertheless, I would like this trial to continue. /

337. 6F
MCU INQUISITOR

INQUISITOR: I was also about to suggest that you might change your mind and consider availing yourself of a Court Defender. A trained, legal mind would offer a more constructive and certainly less emotional presentation of your case. /
