

RAISING ARIZONA

Written by

Joel Coen & Ethan Coen

OVER BLACK:

VOICE OVER
My name is H. I. McDunnough...

A WALL

With horizontal hatch lines.

VOICE OVER
...Call me Hi.

A disheveled young man in a gaily colored Hawaiian shirt is launched into frame by someone offscreen.

He holds a printed paddle that reads "NO. 1468-6 NOV. 29 79."

The hatch marks on the wall behind him are apparently height markers.

VOICE OVER
...The first time I met Ed was in the county lock-up in Tempe, Arizona...

FLASH

As his picture is taken.

CLOSEUP

On the paddle: "NOV. 29 79."

VOICE OVER
...a day I'll never forget.

A bellowing male voice from offscreen:

SHERIFF
Don't forget the profile, Ed!

ANGLE ON THE STILL CAMERA

It is mounted on a tripod. A pretty young woman in a severe police uniform peers out from behind it.

WOMAN
Turn to the right.

HI
What kind of name is Ed for a pretty thing like you?

ED
Short for Edwinna. Turn to the right!

HI obliges, but still looks at Ed out of the corner of his eye.

HI
You're a flower, you are. Just a little desert flower.

FLASH

On his eye-skewed profile.

HI
Lemme know how those come out.

LOW ANGLE CELL BLOCK CORRIDOR

As Hi is escorted away from the camera toward his cell.

At the far end of the corridor a huge con is sluggishly mopping the floor.

VOICE OVER
I was in for writing hot checks which, when businessmen do it, is called an overdraft. I'm not complainin', mind you; just sayin' there ain't no pancake so thin it ain't got two sides. Now prison life is very structured - more than most people care for...

INTERCUTTING

HI'S POV of the MOPPING CON, tracking as he approaches, and the Mopping Con's POV of Hi as Hi approaches.

VOICE OVER
...But there's a spirit of camaraderie that exists between the men, like you find only in combat maybe...

The Mopping Con snarls as Hi passes:

CON
Grrrr...

VOICE OVER
...or on a pro ball club in the heat of a pennant drive.

NEWSREEL FOOTAGE

A ballplayer connects - THWOCK - for a home run and the crowd roars.

PRISON HALL

Panning a circle of men who sit facing each other in folding chairs. The pan starts on Hi.

VOICE OVER

In an effort to better ourselves we were forced to meet with a counselor who tried to help us figure out why we were the way we were...

At this point the pan has reached the COUNSELOR, an earnest, bearded young man who straddles a folding chair with his arms folded over its back.

He is addressing one of the Cons:

COUNSELOR

Why do you use the word "trapped"?

CLOSEUP BLACK CON

The huge muscle-bound black man with a shaved head is knitting his brow in consternation.

CON

Huh?

COUNSELOR

Why do you say you feel "trapped" in a man's body?

CON

Oh...

He bites his lip, thinking; then, in a resonant bass voice:

CON

...Well, sometimes I get the menstrual cramps real hard.

PAROLE MEETING ROOM

Three PAROLE OFFICERS - two men and a woman - face Hi across a table.

CHAIRMAN

Have you learned anything, Hi?

HI
Yessir, you bet.

WOMAN
You wouldn't lie to us, would you
Hi?

HI
No ma'am, hope to say.

CHAIRMAN
Okay then.

EXT. 7-ELEVEN NIGHT

A beat-up Chevy pulls into the all-night store's empty parking lot.

VOICE OVER
I tried to stand up and fly straight, but it wasn't easy with that sumbitch Reagan in the White House...

Hi is getting out of the Chevy in a Hawaiian shirt, holding a pump-action shotgun.

VOICE OVER
...I dunno, they say he's a decent man, so...

He primes the shotgun - WHOOSH - CLACK - and heads for the store.

VOICE OVER
...maybe his advisers are confused.

FLASH

Full-face exposure of Hi once again in front of the mug-shot wall.

ED
Turn to the right!

Hi obliges but shoots sympathetic glances at Ed who is obviously upset, wiping away tears and snuffling behind the camera.

HI
What's the matter, Ed?

ED
My fai-ants left me.

VOICE OVER
She said her fiancée had run off with a student cosmetologist who knew how to ply her feminine wiles.

FLASH

On Hi's profile. He turns back to Ed.

HI
That sumbitch.

SHERIFF (O.S.)
Don't forget his phone call, Ed!

HI
You tell him I think he's a damn fool, Ed. You tell him I said so - H.I. McDunnough. And if he wants to discuss it he knows where to find me...

As another police officer starts to lead him away:

HI
...in the Maricopa County Maximum Security Correctional Facility for Men...

CLOSE ON ED

Looking up through her tears as Hi is led away.

HI (O.S.)
...State Farm Road Number Thirty-one; Tempe, Arizona...

BACK TO HI

Struggling to call back over his shoulder as he is firmly led out the door.

HI
...I'll be waiting!

The door slams.

LOW ANGLE CELL BLOCK CORRIDOR

As Hi is once again escorted toward his cell.

The Mopping Con is now in the middle-background, having worked his way about halfway up the corridor since last time we saw him.

VOICE OVER

I can't say I was happy to be back inside, but the flood of familiar sights, sounds and faces almost made it feel like a homecoming.

CLOSE ON MOPPING CON

As Hi passes.

CON

Grrrr...

PRISON HALL

Group is meeting again.

COUNSELOR

Most men your age, Hi, are getting married and raising up a family. They wouldn't accept prison as a substitute.

Hi looks sheepish.

COUNSELOR

...Would any of you men care to comment?

Two convicts sitting next to each other, GALE and EVELLE, appear to be friends.

GALE

But sometimes your career gotta come before family.

EVELLE

Work is what's kept us happy.

ANGRY BLACK CON

Yeah, but Doc Schwartz is sayin' you gotta accept responsibilities.

I mean I'm proud to say I got a family... somewheres.

HIGH ANGLE CELL

Looking down from the ceiling. In the foreground, lying on the top bunk, hands clasped behind his head as he stares off into space is MOSES. Moses is a gnarled, elderly black con with wire-rimmed spectacles. On the lower bunk, also with hands clasped behind his head and staring off at the same spot in space, is Hi.

VOICE OVER

I tried to sort through what the Doc had said, but prison ain't the easiest place to think.

MOSES

An' when they was no meat we ate fowl. An' when they was no fowl we ate crawdad. An' when they was no crawdad to be foun', we ate San'.

HI

You ate what?

MOSES

(nodding)

We ate San'.

HI

You ate sand?!

MOSES

Dass right...

PAROLE BOARD ROOM

Hi faces the same three PAROLE OFFICERS across the same table.

CHAIRMAN

Well Boy, you done served your twenty munce, and seeing as you never use live ammo, we got no choice but to return you to society.

SECOND MAN

These doors goan swing wide.

HI

I didn't want to hurt anyone, Sir.

SECOND MAN

Hi, we respect that.

CHAIRMAN

But you're just hurtin' yourself with this rambunctious behavior.

HI

I know that, sir.

CHAIRMAN

Okay then.

HIGH SHOT

Of a 7-Eleven parking lot, at night, deserted except for Hi's car which sits untended, its engine rumbling.

VOICE OVER

Now I don't know how you come down on the incarceration question...

Hi backpedals into frame with a shotgun and a bag of cash.

VOICE OVER

...whether it's for rehabilitation or revenge.

He spins and grabs his car-door handle. Locked. He tries the back door. Locked.

VOICE OVER

...But I was beginning to think...

As we hear the wail of an approaching siren, Hi takes it on the heel and toe.

VOICE OVER

...that revenge is the only argument makes any sense.

FLASH

On Hi against the mug-shot wall.

ED

Turn to the right!

SHERIFF (O.S.)

Don't forget his latents, Ed!

CLOSE ON HI'S HAND

We see his right hand being efficiently manipulated by Ed's two hands: She is rolling each of his inked fingers into the appropriate space on an exemplar sheet.

HI (O.S.)

Hear about the paddy-wagon collided with the segment mixer, Ed? Twelve hardened criminals escaped.

Ed's hand lingers on top of his. Hi's other hand enters to rest on top of hers.

HI (O.S.)

Got a new beau?

ED (O.S.)
No, Hi, I sure don't.

Hi slips a ring off his own finger and slides it onto Ed's.

HI (O.S.)
Don't worry, I paid for it.

LOW ANGLE CELL BLOCK CORRIDOR

The surly Mopping Con has now worked his way up to the foreground.

Hi is being escorted past him to his cell.

VOICE OVER
They say that absence makes the heart grow fonder, and for once they may be right.

Halfway up the corridor Hi points casually at the floor.

HI
You missed a spot.

The Mopping Con turns to watch him recede.

CON
Grrrr...

HIGH ANGLE CELL

Same high shot with Moses on the top bunk, Hi on the lower.

VOICE OVER
More and more my thoughts turned to Ed, and I finally felt the pain of imprisonment.

MOSES
An' momma would frow the live crawdad in a pot of boiln' water.
Well one day I decided to make my own crawdad...

We begin to crane down to tighten on the absently staring
Hi.

VOICE OVER
...an' I frew it in a pot, forgettin' to put in the water, ya see...

Moses' voice is mixing down as we lose him from frame.

VOICE OVER

...and it was like I was makin' popcorn, ya see... The joint is a lonely place after lock-up and fights out...

We are now very close on Hi, staring.

VOICE OVER

...when the last of the cons has been swept away by the sandman.

HI'S POV

The underside of the top bunk.

A sudden flash whitens and fades to leave the image of Ed, smiling behind her camera, softly supered on the underside of the bunk.

BACK TO HI

He wearily turns his head to profile on the pillow and shuts his eyes.

VOICE OVER

But I couldn't help thinking that a brighter future lay ahead - a future that was only eight to fourteen months away.

Eyes closed, he is illuminated by a flash.

PAROLE BOARD ROOM

Hi and the same three officers.

CHAIRMAN

Got a name for people like you, Hi.
That name is called recidivism.

SECOND MAN

Ree-peat O-fender.

CHAIRMAN

Not a pretty name, is it, Hi?

HI

No Sir, it sure ain't. That's one bonehead name. But that ain't me anymore.

CHAIRMAN

You're not just tellin' us what we wanna hear?

HI

No Sir, no way.

SECOND MAN

'Cause we just wanna hear the truth.

HI

Well then I guess I am tellin' you what you wanna hear.

CHAIRMAN

Boy, didn't we just tell you not to do that?

HI

Yessir.

CHAIRMAN

Okay then.

TRACKING

Over Hi's shoulder as he strides toward a door marked "Processing" and flings it open.

It is the familiar booking room. Ed looks up from her camera, having just snapped a picture of another suspect against the hatched wall.

HI

I'm walkin' in here on my knees, Ed
- a free man proposin'.

Hi cocks a finger at the suspect.

HI

Howdy Kurt.

ED'S ROOM

As she nervously frets at her white bridal gown in front of a mirror.

VOICE OVER

And so it was.

SHERIFF (O.S.)

Don't forget the boo-kay, Ed!

CLOSE SHOT ED

Gazing earnestly into the camera. A congregation is seated behind her - the bride's side wearing police blues; the groom's side, Hawaiian shirts.

ED

I do.

CLOSE SHOT HI

Also staring into the camera.

HI

You bet I do.

REVERSE

Over their shoulders, the minister.

MINISTER

Okay then.

FLASH

On the newlyweds smiling at the camera.

FLASH

On the newlyweds smiling at each other, profile to the camera.

HIGH WIDE SHOT TRAILER PARK

In the middle of a vast expanse of desert.

VOICE OVER

Ed's pa staked us to a starter home in suburban Tempe...

INT. MACHINE SHOP

Hi is working the drill press, wearing goggles and sweat-stained overalls.

VOICE OVER

...and I got a job drilling holes in sheet metal.

Next to him idly stands Bud, a veteran of the shop, with a grimy face and a pair of goggles pushed up on his forehead.

BUD

So we was doin' paramedical work in affiliation with the state highway system-not actually practicin', y'understand - and me and Bill's patrollin' down Nine Mile -

HI

Bill Roberts?

BUD

(barking)

No, not that motherscratcher! Bill Parker! Anyway, we're approachin' the wreck, and there's a spherical object arestin' on the highway...

He pauses to blow and pop a bubble with his chewing gum.

BUD

...And it don't look like a piece a the car.

VOICE OVER

Mostways the job was a lot like prison, except Ed was waitin' at the end of every day...

CASHIER'S WINDOW

Hi is scowling at his paycheck. Behind the barred window a fat cashier grins.

VOICE OVER

...and a paycheck at the end of every week.

CASHIER

Gummint do take a bite, don't she?

EXT. TRAILER

Hi sits in a lawn chair in front of the trailer. Ed sits on his lap, his arms around her. Both are wearing sunglasses, looking at the setting sun. The scene is suffused with a warm yellow light.

VOICE OVER

These were the happy days, the salad days as they say...

As the sun sets, the light is turning from yellow to amber. Hi and Ed watch, their heads following its slow downward arc.

VOICE OVER

...and Ed felt that having a critter was the next logical step.
It was all she thought about.

The amber is turning to a more neutral dusky light as the sun has set. Hi and Ed continue to stare at the point where it disappeared.

VOICE OVER

...Her point was that there was too much love and beauty for just the two of us...

The dusk is slipping away into darkness.

VOICE OVER

...and every day we kept a child out of the world was a day he might later regret having missed.

We are by now holding on pitch black. Crickets chirp. From the darkness:

ED

That was beautiful.

A CALENDAR

Ed is crossing off the last day on the calendar before a day circled in red.

VOICE OVER

So we worked at it on the days we calculated most likely to be fruitful...

INT. TRAILER

Hi is wearily entering after a long day at work, clutching his lunchpail.

VOICE OVER

...and we worked at it most other days just to be sure.

Ed flies into frame and leaps into his arms, covering him with kisses.

TRAILER BEDROOM

In each other's arms, Hi and Ed roll over on the bed.

VOICE OVER Seemed like nothing could stand in our way now...

We pan with them rolling and continue off them to the night table, on which sits a framed pair of photographs of Hi, probably taken by Ed: One shows him full face, the other in profile.

EXT. TRAILER TWILIGHT

Ed sits in a lawn chair knitting a boot. Hi stands in Bermuda shorts and an unbuttoned Hawaiian shirt, hosing down the minuscule patch of front lawn.

VOICE OVER
...My lawless years were behind me;
our child rearin' years lay ahead.

DUSTY ROAD LEADING UP TO TRAILER DAY

A squad car, its siren wailing, kicks up dust as it roars into the foreground.

ADOPTION OFFICE

Hi and Ed are seated on folding chairs facing an agent's desk. Hi wears a sport coat over his Hawaiian shirt. Ed is in her dress blues.

HI
It's true I've had a checkered past, but Ed here is an officer of the law twice decorated...

THE AGENT

Looking, with a dead pan, from the file to Hi.

HI
...So we figure it kind of evens out.

His face still deadly neutral, the agent looks back down at the file and unfolds the accordions rap sheet, revealing it to be a couple feet long.

VOICE OVER
...But biology and the prejudices of others conspired to keep us childless.

INT. SQUAD CAR

On Ed as she stares vacantly out the passenger window.

VOICE OVER
Our love for each other was stronger than ever...

ON HI

Driving. He looks from Ed out to the road.

VOICE OVER
...but I premissed no return of the salad days.

TRAILER BATHROOM

Over Hi's shoulder as he stares listlessly at himself in the mirror, a razor held forgotten in one hand, his face half lathered and half shaved.

VOICE OVER
The pizazz had gone out of our lives.

TRAILER BEDROOM

The bedroom is somewhat messy. Ed sits on the edge of the bed, also staring listlessly. Her police uniform is on but not yet buttoned. Her hands lie palm-up in her lap, like two dead fish.

VOICE OVER
Ed lost all interest in both criminal justice and housekeeping.
Soon after, she tendered her badge.

MACHINE SHOP

Once again Hi works as his sweaty gum-chewing colleague stands idly by.

VOICE OVER
Even my job seemed as dry and bitter as a hot prairie wind.

BUD

So here comes Bill a-walkin' down Nine Mile - that's Bill Parker, y'understand - got his sandwich in one hand, the fuckin' head in the other...

ON HI DRIVING

Alone in his Chevy. He looks to the side.

VOICE OVER
I even caught myself drivin' by convenience stores...

HIS MOVING POV

7-Eleven.

VOICE OVER
...that weren't on the way home.

TRAILER LIVING ROOM

Hi and Ed sit listlessly watching TV.

VOICE OVER
Then one day the biggest news hit the state since they built the Hoover Dam...

Ed perks up, reacting to something on TV. Hi notices her reaction and also sloughs off his stupor to watch.

VOICE OVER
...The Arizona quint was born.

THE TV

A newscaster silently reading copy. Behind him news footage of five nurses holding infants mortices in.

VOICE OVER
By "Arizona" quint I mean they was born to a woman named Florence Arizona.

BACK TO HI AND ED

Watching intently. Eyes still locked on the set, Ed reaches her hand out to Hi. Eyes still locked on the set, Hi takes her hand in his.

VOICE OVER
As you probably guessed, Florence
Arizona is the wife of Nathan Arizona. And Nathan Arizona - well hell, you know who he is...

THE TV A LATE-NIGHT LOCAL COMMERCIAL

NATHAN ARIZONA, a stocky middle-aged man in a white polyester suit, is gesturing expansively with his white cowboy hat toward a one-story warehouse store with a football stadium parking lot, chroma-keyed in behind him.

NATHAN ARIZONA
(mixing up on the TV)
So come on down to Unpainted Arizona for the finest selection in fixtures and appointments for your bathroom, bedroom, beaudoir!

VOICE OVER
...The owner of the largest chain of unpainted furniture and bathroom fixture outlets throughout the Southwest.

NATHAN ARIZONA
And if you can find lower prices anywhere my name ain't Nathan Arizona!

BACK TO HI AND ED

As they slowly look from the TV set toward each other.

LINE OF NEWSPAPER VENDING MACHINES

Hi lounges near one of the vending machines as a businessman puts in a quarter.

VOICE OVER
Yep, Florence had been taking fertility pills, and she and Nathan had hit the jackpot.

The businessman takes his newspaper and releases the machine door as he turns to leave.

Hi snags the door before it closes and takes his own five-finger discount copy.

He flips the paper over to look at the headline.

FRONT PAGE OF NEWSPAPER

The banner headline of the Tempe Intelligencer is:

"ARIZONA QUINTS GO HOME!"

The subhead: "More Than We Can Handle,' Laughs Dad." Next to it is a picture of Nathan.

VOICE OVER
Now y'all who're without sin can cast the first stone...

A pull back from the paper shows Hi and Ed reading it together at home. They look from the paper to each other.

Hi opens to an inside page and we pan a row of pictures - the five tots with their names underneath: "HARRY, BARRY, LARRY, GARRY and NATHAN JR."

VOICE OVER
...but we thought it was unfair that some should have so many while others should have so few.

BILLBOARD

In the middle of the desert. It reads: "WELCOME TO TEMPE!
POPULATION 13,948... PLUS FIVE!"

EXT. TRAILER TWILIGHT

We are floating in toward Ed who is seated, waiting, in the driver's seat of Hi's Chevy. Hi enters frame and cinches down a ladder that is tied to the roof of the car. Pieces of red flag flutter at either end of the ladder where it sticks out beyond the car.

VOICE OVER
With the benefit of hindsight maybe it wasn't such a hot idea...

Hi gets in the car.

FROM BEHIND THE CHEVY

It starts down the long, winding road leading away from the trailer, kicking up dust.

VOICE OVER
...but at the time, Ed's little plan seemed like the solution to all our problems, and the answer to all our prayers.

The title of the film burns in: "RAISING ARIZONA". A building chord snaps off in a shock cut to:

SUBURBAN LIVING ROOM EVENING

Tableau of a couple at home. Nathan Arizona is on the telephone, his stocking feet up on an ottoman. Florence sits reading Dr. Spock's Baby and Child Care.

The living room is dominated by a large oil portrait of Nathan and Florence, gazing out from the wall over the mantelpiece.

NATHAN

(into the phone)

Eight hundred leaf tables and no chairs?! You can't sell leaf tables and no chairs! Chairs, you got a dinette set! No chairs, you got dick! I ask my wife she got more sense!...

TITLE IS SUPERED:

"THE ARIZONA HOUSEHOLD"

From somewhere upstairs we hear an infant start to cry. Florence stops reading and looks up at the ceiling. Nathan is oblivious.

NATHAN

...Miles, all I know is I'm away from the office to have me some kids and everything goes straight to heck! I ain't gonna stand for it!

Another title is supered below the first: "SEPTEMBER 17, 1985". The baby stops crying and Florence's attention returns to her book.

VOICE OVER

...Yeah, and if a frog had wings he wouldn't bump his ass a-hoppin'! I'm sick of your excuses, Miles! It is now...

As he throws out his wrist to look at his watch a third title is supered beneath the first two: 8:45 p.m.

VOICE OVER

...8:45 in the p.m. I'm gonna be down to the store in exactly twelve hours to kick me some butt!

He starts to replace the receiver but brings it back with an afterthought:

VOICE OVER

...Or my name ain't Nathan Arizona!

As he slams the phone into the cradle the titles disappear. Another baby starts crying. Florence looks up at the ceiling.

NATHAN

That sounds like Larry.

Close on the crying baby as Hi bounces it, gently but desperately.

HI

Shhhh! Shh! Nice baby...

He starts to lower it back into the crib. The crib is unpainted with the name of each baby burned Bonanza-style into the headboard: Harry, Barry, Larry, Garry, and Nathan Jr. Instead of quieting as he is lowered into the crib, the squalling baby only sets off one of his brothers. Hi hurriedly lifts him back out.

He looks desperately around the room.

The room is wallpapered with nursery rhyme characters.

There are toys strewn around. There is one adult-sized easy chair in the corner.

Hi carries the baby over to the chair, stepping on and reacting to the squeal of a squeeze-me toy on the way. He sits the baby deep in - the chair and then returns to the crib to deal with the second crying baby.

He lifts the baby out of the crib and gently bounces it. This baby stops crying.

Another one in the crib starts bawling.

Hi sets the second baby down on the floor and gives it a rattle to keep it pacified. He reaches for the third baby in the crib. Sweat stands out on Hi 's brow. He is desperately chucking the third baby under the chin when we hear a muffled PTHUMP!

He whirls to look across the darkened room.

The first baby has dropped off the easy chair and is energetically crawling away toward a shadowy corner.

LIVING ROOM

Nathan and Florence are sitting stock-still, staring at the ceiling. After a moment, another baby starts crying.

NATHAN

What're they, playing telephone?

They stare at the ceiling.

NURSERY

Loose babies are crawling everywhere. Hi is skittering across the room in a half-crouch, a baby tucked under one arm, reaching out with the other as he pursues a crawling baby across the room.

He hefts the other baby with his free arm and brings the air back to the crib.

He turns to look frantically around the room.

The other three babies have disappeared.

There is perfect quiet.

Hi goes over to the closet door, which is ajar, and swings it open.

He reaches under a moving pile of clothes on the floor and pulls out a baby.

He returns it to the crib and freezes, listening.

The sound of a rattle.

He drops to the floor to look under the crib.

WIDE ANGLE UNDER CRIB

A baby holding a rattle leers into the camera in the foreground. Behind him Hi, on his stomach, is reaching in to grab at his leg.

Hi is pulling the baby out, away from the camera, when with a plop! a baby drops onto Hi 's back from the crib above.

Hi twists one arm back to grope for the baby crawling on top of him.

He is straightening up, a baby in each arm, when he reacts in horror to something he sees across the room.

HI'S POV

The hindquarters of a diapered baby are just disappearing around the corner of the nursery door into the hallway.

LIVING ROOM

Florence and Nathan are staring at the ceiling. After a beat we hear a muffled plop! on the ceiling. A beat later, the bleat of the squeeze-me toy.

NATHAN

...Whyn't you go up and check on
'em?

They sound restless.

UPSTAIRS HALLWAY

The floor-level wide-angle shot shows a baby crawling toward the camera in the foreground. Behind him, in the background, just rounding the open door from the nursery, yet another baby is making a mad dash for freedom.

Hi emerges from the nursery and, stepping around the background baby, trots toward the baby in the foreground. By the time he reaches it the low-angle cropping shows us only his feet and calves.

CLOSE ON HI

Perspiring as he tiptoes the last two steps to the baby.

HI'S POV

The baby and, beyond it, the stairway down to the main floor. We hear footsteps approaching.

BACK TO HI

He scoops up the baby and hurriedly tiptoes away toward the nursery.

LOW-ANGLE REVERSE

The baby at the nursery door in the foreground; the staircase in the background. As Hi reaches the baby we hear footsteps climbing the stairs.

Hi's free arm comes down into frame to scoop the baby up and out of frame just as:

Florence's head appears, bobbing up as she climbs the stairs.

She approaches the nursery, still clutching the Dr. Spock book.

NURSERY

As Florence enters from the hallway door.

We track back into the room, on her, as she approaches the crib. Halfway there she freezes, staring, in shock.

HER POV

All of the babies have been replaced in the crib but not lying down: They are seated in a row, staring back at her, lined up against the far crib railing, like a small but distinguished panel on "Meet the Press."

THROUGH THE WINDSHIELD OF THE CHEVY

ED'S POV of Hi approaching the car. He is shrugging and displaying a pair of manifestly empty hands.

CLOSE ON ED

Barely able to fight down her anger. Hissing:

ED
What's the matter?!

Hi appears at her - the driver's-window.

HI
Sorry honey, it just didn't work out.

He is reaching to open the door but she slaps his hand away from the handle.

ED
What d'you mean it didn't work out?!

HI
They started cryin', then they were all over me...

He is trying to open the door, which Ed is holding shut with all her might.

HI
...It was kinda horrifying - Lemme in, honey.

ED
Course they cried! Babies cry!

HI
I know that now! Come on honey, we better leave -

Ed is rolling up the window and locking the door.

ED
You go right back up there and get me a toddler! I need a baby, Hi; they got more'n they can handle!

Muffled, through the closed window, and very forlorn:

HI
Aw honey I -

ED
Don't you come back here without a baby!

NURSERY

Florence is holding one of the babies cradled against her shoulder. She is facing the hallway door; her back is to the crib and window. The baby, peeping out over her shoulder, is facing the window.

CLOSE ON BABY

Looking.

BABY'S POV

Of the window, as Hi's head appears in it.

BABY

Looking.

HI

Looking back, he holds a finger to his lips.

BABY

Florence starts bouncing it, patting it on the back.

BABY'S POV

Hi and the window bouncing up and down.

LIVING ROOM

Nathan is leafing through the lingerie ads in the newspaper.

We can hear Florence's returning footsteps. Muttering:

NATHAN
Christian Dior my butt...

Florence enters.

NATHAN
...They pay money for that?

FLORENCE
Yes dear.

NATHAN
How're the kids?

FLORENCE
Fine dear.

NATHAN
Fuckin' kids, I love 'em.

We hear the bleat of the squeeze-me toy. Florence and Nathan look at the ceiling for a beat, then Nathan clears his throat and returns to the newspaper.

CHEVY

Ed sits anxiously waiting in the driver's seat, peering intently through the windshield. As she catches sight of something she breaks into a broad smile, unlocks the door, and slides over to the passenger seat.

Hi is opening the door with one hand, cradling a baby in the other.

ED
Which one ya get?

As he gets into the driver's seat:

HI
I dunno. Nathan Jr., I think.

ED
Gimme here.

He hands her the infant, then hands her the copy of Dr.Spock's Baby and Child Care.

HI
Here's the instructions.

ED
Oh, he's beautiful!

Hi nods as he pulls away from the curb.

HI

He's awful damn good. I think I got the best one.

Ed is gushing and kissing the baby through the rest of the conversation.

ED

I bet they were all beautiful. All babies are beautiful!

HI

Yeah. This one's awful damn good though.

ED

Don't you cuss around him.

HI

He's fine, he is. I think it's Nathan Jr.

ED

We are doin' the right thing, aren't we Hi? - I mean, they had more'n they could handle.

HI

Well now honey we been over this and over this. There's what's right and there's what's right, and never the twain shall meet.

ED

But you don't think his momma'll be upset? I mean overly?

HI

Well a course she'll be upset, sugar, but she'll get over it. She's got four little babies almost as good as this one. It's like when I was robbin' convenience stores -

Ed suddenly bursts out crying.

ED

I love him so much!

HI

I know you do, honey.

ED
(still sobbing)
I love him so much!

TRAILER LIVING ROOM

As the lights are thrown on. The room is hung with streamers. A string of cut-out letters reads "Welcome Home Son!"

HI (O.S.)
Okay, bring him in!

REVERSE

Ed is entering with Nathan Jr.

HI
This is it young Nathan Jr. Just feast your eyes about, old boy!

ED
Don't be so loud around him, Hi.

HI
(softly)
Damn, I'm sorry honey.

ED
And don't you cuss around him.

HI
Aw, he don't know a cuss word from shinola.

ED
Well see that he don't.

HI
(jovially)
He's all right, he is.

He reaches for the child.

HI
...Come on over here, Nathan Jr.,
I'll show you around.

He takes the baby in both hands and holds him out at arm's length, pointing him at the various places of interest. The baby looks goggle-eyed at each one.

HI

...Lookahere, young sportsman. That - there's the kitchen area where Ma and Pa chow down. Over there's the TV, two hours a day maximum, either educational or football so's you don't ruin your appreciation of the finer things. This - here's the divan, for sociahzin' and relaxin' with the family unit. Yessir, many's the day we sat there and said wouldn't it be nice to have a youngster here to share our thoughts and feelin's -

Impatient with the nonsense:

ED

He's tired, Hi.

HI

Well we'll just sit you right there, boy...

He is propping Nathan Jr. up in the corner of the couch. Hi sits at the other corner and Ed sits in a facing chair.

HI

...Just put those dogs up'n take a load off.

Hi beams at Nathan Jr. Ed smiles at Nathan Jr. Nathan Jr. looks from one to the other, deadpan. They seem to be waiting for him to contribute to the conversation.

Silence.

Suddenly Hi slaps his knee.

HI

What are you kiddin'?! We got a family here!

Ed is getting up.

HI

...He's a scandal, honey! He's a little outlaw!

As she picks up the baby:

ED

He's a good boy.

HI

He ain't too good! You can tell by that twinkle in his eye!

ED

Don't you think we should put him to bed?

HI

Hang on, honey...

He is frantically reaching for a Polaroid camera.

HI

...Let's us preserve the moment in pictures!

ED

Just one, okay?...

She sits down on the couch with Nathan Jr. as Hi starts screwing the camera into a tripod.

ED

...I gotta tell ya, I'm a little scared.

Absently, as he sets up the camera:

HI

How come is that, honey?

ED

Well we got a baby, Hi. It's an awful big responsibility.

As he peers through the lens:

HI

Honey, could ya slide over a tad and raise the nipper up?

As she complies:

ED

I mean we never done this before and I'm kinda nervous.

HI

You're doin' real good, sugar.

Hi sits on the couch, holding the camera's cable release. He puts his arm around Ed and smiles at the offscreen camera.

Ed nestles her head against Hi's shoulder.

ED
I love you, Hi.

HI
We're set to pop here, honey.

ED
You're gonna help, aren't ya?

Through his teeth as he continues to grin at the offscreen camera:

HI
How's that, honey?

ED
Give Nathan Jr. a normal family background, just quiet evenings at home together...

We begin to hear distant thunder.

HI
You can count on it, honey.

ED
...Everything decent'n normal from here on out.

HI
Uh-huh.

As he squeezes the cable release - FLASH - the image momentarily freezes on Hi beaming, Nathan Jr. staring, and Ed looking at Hi with a little bit of concern.

DARK FIELD SAME NIGHT

The rolling thunder has built to a thunderclap at the cut, and the flash of the Polaroid match cuts to lightning throwing a momentarily harsh glare on the field.

Rain beats down on the bare patch of ground we are looking at - by now just a patch of mud.

Faraway lightning flickers and we hear the rumble of more thunder approaching, then suddenly:

THWACK - A head pops up out of the mud. It is Gale, the con we saw in group therapy. He bellows as lightning and thunder flash and crack nearby.

His head is covered with mud, although the driving rain is already starting to wash it away.

We are beginning to track in an arc around Gale's head, who is now struggling, working to get his shoulders and arms up out of the mud. The end of the 180-degree arc and a flash of lightning reveal, way in the distance, the wire-topped walls of a penitentiary.

Still bellowing, as if in some primal rage, Gale has gotten his muck-covered arms up out of the earth and is now pushing down to haul up the rest of his body. It comes with much effort, and with the loud sucking-popping sounds of the fiercely clinging mud.

Finally he is free.

With a great cry, the mud-covered man plunges his right arm straight back down into the earth, all the way up to his shoulder. He gropes intently and then, apparently having grabbed hold of something underground, he starts pulling.

His arm comes slowly back up out of the mud. Clapsed in his hand is - a human foot.

Bellowing with effort he continues to pull, liberating the foot... leg... torso of his companion, and finally his head.

As the rain starts to wash the mud off his companion's head we see that it is his friend Evelle.

Both are bellowing.

Mud sucks and pops.

Thunder crashes.

INT. GAS STATION MENS ROOM

At the cut the ear-splitting thunder drops out to quiet. We hear only the muffled patter of rain and the hum of a bare fluorescent.

The two bedraggled escaped cons are standing side by side, combing their hair in the mirror. The men seem absorbed in their task, using hair jelly from a jar that sits on the shelf between them to restore their duck's-ass haircuts.

Evelle cracks the bathroom door and looks out into the rain.

EVELLE

...Okay.

GALE
What is it?

EVELLE
Mercury. Looks nice.

EXT. GAS STATION

The two men are trotting out to a Mercury that sits untended at a gas island, a gas hose on automatic stuck in its tank.

As Gale starts up the car Evelle yanks the hose out and drops it to the ground. Gale is already starting to peel out as Evelle gets in.

WIDE SHOT TRAILER LIVING ROOM

Late at night. Hi sits asleep on the sofa at the far end of the room, in a pool of lamp light.

We hear faint, distant knocking. As we track in toward Hi the knocking becomes louder and more present.

As we approach Hi we see that several Polaroids are spread over his gently rising and falling chest.

By the time we tighten on his face the knocking has become quite loud.

VOICE
Open up!

Hi starts awake with a grunt.

VOICE
...Open up in air!

He looks up, alarmed.

HI'S POV

The front door of the trailer. Someone is pounding insistently.

VOICE
Open up! It's a police!

BACK TO HI

He sits up and tenses. He looks around.

Ed stands in her nightgown at the mouth of the hallway, holding Nathan Jr. and squinting at Hi. She hisses:

ED
Hi! What's goin' on?

VOICE
Po-lice, son! Open her up!

Hi gets to his feet, hurriedly tosses the Polaroids under a cushion of the couch and takes out a gun.

HI
Get in the bedroom.

ED
They ain't gonna take Nathan?!

HI
Well I'd like to see 'em fly.

As Ed turns back to the bedroom:

VOICE
Open up and maybe we'll letcha plea-bargain.

BEDROOM

As Ed enters and shuts the door. She listens hard at the door:

Hi's footsteps cross the living room, the click of the door opening, silence... a burst of raucous male laughter.

HI'S VOICE
...Honey! Come on out here! Want you to meet a couple friends of mine!

LIVING ROOM

As Ed enters, carrying Nathan Jr. All three men - Hi, Gale, and Evelle - are beaming at her.

HI
Honey, like you to meet Gale and Evelle Snopes, fine a pair as ever broke and entered.

Gale roars with laughter.

HI
...Boys, this - here's my wife.

GALE
Ma'am.

EVELLE
Miz McDunnough.

Ed smiles politely, then squints at Hi.

ED
Kind of late for visitors, isn't it
Hi?

HI
Well yeah honey, but these boys tell me they just got outta the joint. Gotta show a little hospitality.

Gale is admiring the baby.

GALE
Well now H.I., looks like you been up to the devil's bidnis!

EVELLE
That a him or a her?

ED
It's a little boy.

GALE
Got a name, does he?

Hi and Ed look at each other uncomfortably. Hi clears his throat.

HI
Well so far we just been using Junior.

ED
We call him Junior.

EVELLE
Say, thairs good - JR., just like on the Teevee.

Gale is staring at the streamers and decorations. Reading aloud:

GALE
"Welcome... Home... Son." Where's
he been?

Hi and Ed respond simultaneously:

HI
Tulsa.

ED Phoenix.

HI
He was, uh... he was visiting his grandparents.

ED
They're separated.

GALE
Was that yer folks ma'am?

ED
No, I'm afraid not.

GALE
I thought yer folks was dead, H.I.?

HI
(very uncomfortably)
Well we thought Junior should see their final resting place - Whyn't you boys have a seat?

As the two men move toward the couch Ed hesitantly pipes up:

ED
Hi, it's two in the morning...

She wrinkles her nose.

ED
...What's that smell?

Apologetically:

GALE
We don't always smell like this,
Miz McDunnough. I was just explainin' to yer better half here that when we were tunneln' out we hit the main sewer - dumb luck, that - and just followed that to -

ED
You mean you busted out of jail!!

GALE
Waaaal...

EVELLE

We released ourselves on our own recognizance.

GALE

What Evelle means to say is, we felt the institution no longer had anything to offer us.

He is looking at the baby.

GALE

...My Lord he's cute.

EVELLE

He's a little outlaw, you can see that.

ED

Now listen, you folks can't stay here!

Gale, Evelle, and Hi look up at Ed, dumbstruck. After a beat:

EVELLE

...Ma'am?

ED

You just can't stay! I appreciate your bein' friends of Hi and all, but this is a decent family now...

She looks at Hi.

ED

...I mean we got a toddler here!

Gale leans in close to Hi, a look of sincere concern on his face, and says under his breath:

GALE

Say, who wears the pants round here
H.I.?

HI

Now honey -

ED

Don't you honey me. Now you boys can set a while and catch up, and then you'll be on your way.

There is an awkward silence as she leaves and slams the bedroom door.

Gale is carefully studying his thumbnail; Evelle stares fixedly at the ceiling. Still looking at his thumb:

GALE

Gotcha on a awful short leash, don't she H.I.?

BEDROOM

Sometime later, as Hi tiptoes in. Ed lies in bed facing the wall; we see only the back of her head. Hi sits gingerly on the edge of the bed and, smiling, sticks a finger through the bars of the crib to play with the baby.

The sound of the TV set in the living room filters faintly in.

ED

They still here?

Hi is momentarily startled, then goes on playing with the baby.

HI

Yeah, they're just gonna stay a day or two. It's raining out honey, they got nowhere to go.

Ed finally turns to face him. We hear the two men laugh raucously in the living room.

ED

They're fugitives, Hi...

Hi turns to face her.

ED

...How're we gonna start a new life with them around?

HI

Well now honey you gotta have a little charity. Ya know, in Arab lands they'd set out a plate -

ED

Promise just a day or two.

HI

Tonight and tomorrow, tops.

EXTREME HIGH ANGLE

Looking straight down at Hi, asleep in bed. It is later: filtering softly in from the other room is the end of the "Star Spangled Banner" on TV. We are craning down.

VOICE OVER

That night I had a dream.

FLASH CUT

For a brief moment we see a wall of flames and hear it roar.

BACK TO HI

Still craning down.

VOICE OVER

...I'd drifted off thinkin' about happiness, birth, and new life...

FLASH CUT

Wall of flames. Deafening roar.

BACK TO HI

Craning down. The faint National Anthem ends: we hear the WEEEEEEEEEE of a test pattern.

VOICE OVER

But now I was haunted by a vision of -

WALL OF FLAMES

Roaring. At the cut: WHOOOOOSH! a huge low-rider motorcycle bursts through the flames, its engine roaring even louder than the fire. Its driver is a huge leather-clad hellion.

The chains worn by the Biker clank ominously as he rides.

VOICE OVER

He was horrible...

The Biker roars out of frame.

LOW-ANGLE REVERSE

As the Biker roars into frame, his rear tire laying down a wake of fire.

VOICE OVER
...a lone biker of the apocalypse...

TRACKING ON BIKER

As he roars along a ribbon of desert highway.

VOICE OVER
...a man with all the powers of her at his command.

The Biker reaches for his bullwhip.

VOICE OVER
...He could turn the day into night...

The Biker cracks the whip and, at the crack:

The sky behind him turns instantly to black. Bolts of lightning crackle across it as thunder roars.

ANOTHER DESERT SCENE DAY

Tracking with and also in on the Biker from behind as he roars along a strip of highway. He is reaching for the two sawed-off shotguns which are strapped crisscross across his back.

VOICE OVER
...and laid to waste everything in his path.

REVERSE TRACK ON BIKER

Pulling the Biker from a distance as he levels the two shotguns. The tracking camera pulls back further to reveal a running jack-rabbit keeping pace with us in the foreground.

VOICE OVER
He was especially hard on the little things...

CRACK - as the first shotgun spurts orange the foreground rabbit keels over. The Biker slues the other gun around.

LOCKED-DOWN WIDE SHOT

On a rock in the foreground, a desert lizard suns himself.

The Biker is approaching in the distant background.

VOICE OVER
...the helpless and the gentle creatures.

CRACK - from afar, the foreground lizard is blown away.

LOCKED-DOWN LOW-ANGLE WIDE SHOT

Of the empty desert road stretching away. In the foreground a lone desert flower blooms.

The Biker roars into frame.

VOICE OVER
He left a scorched earth in his wake, befouling even the sweet desert breeze that whipped across his brow.

As the Biker roars away, the foreground flower bends with his draft and then bursts into flame.

TRACKING ON BIKER

From in front. He twirls the shotguns in either hand and reaches back to plunge them over his shoulders into their holsters.

VOICE OVER
I didn't know where he came from or why...

We are moving in on his chest, where two crisscrossed bandoliers carry two rows of hand grenades, their silver pins glinting in the sun. We follow the line of one of the bandoliers up to his right shoulder which bears the tattoo:
"Mama Didn't Love Me."

VOICE OVER
I didn't know if he was dream or vision...

REVERSE TRACK ON BIKER

From behind, booming down as we track. We are approaching the crest of a rise.

VOICE OVER
But I feared that I myself had unleashed him...

HIGH SHOT

Of the Biker approaching, craning down as he draws near.

VOICE OVER
...for he was The Fury That Would Be...

With the crane down we momentarily lose him from view over the rise; then suddenly - ROAR - he tops the rise and, wheels spinning, is airborne

REVERSE

As he crashes back down to earth in the foreground and roars away. Only now we are no longer in the desert:

We are looking down a twilight street at the end of which is the Arizona house.

VOICE OVER
...as soon as Florence Arizona found her little Nathan gone.

The roar of his engine and clank of his chains recede as the Biker gradually dissolves into thin air.

We are left looking at the empty street and the faraway Arizona house.

The receding roar has left behind eerily beautiful singing, a woman singing a lullaby. Faintly, behind the singing, there is also a droning high-pitched noise.

The camera starts floating forward very close to the ground, moving slowly toward the Arizona house. The high-pitched drone is becoming less faint under the singing.

The camera is accelerating. The drone is growing louder - we can now tell that it is a human scream.

As we approach the Arizona house we can see that a ladder is propped up to a second-story window.

We are moving quite fast now. The scream all but buries the singing.

We are rushing toward the house, toward the base of the ladder, the sustained scream drawing us on.

We hurtle toward and then straight up the ladder with no abatement of speed, sucked forward by the deafening scream.

We reach the top and hurtle - THWAP! - through the white curtains of the open second-story window into the nursery to reveal Florence Arizona, her back to us, screaming over the crib.

We are rocketing toward her.

She is turning to us, hands pressed to her ears, mouth stretched wide in an ear-splitting shriek and we are rushing into an extreme close-up of her gaping mouth and her wildly vibrating epiglottis and we

CUT TO:

EXTREME CLOSE SHOT OF HI'S EYES

As they snap open.

The screaming snaps off at the cut. The singing that the building scream covered, however, is now audible again.

Perspiration beads Hi's forehead. He looks down toward the foot of the bed.

THE BEDROOM

It is now morning. Ed walks back and forth, gently bouncing the baby as she walks. She is singing it a lullaby.

Faintly, from the next room, we can hear Gale and Evelle snoring away like buzz saws.

HI
(groggily)
He all right?

ED
He's all right. He was just havin' a nightmare.

Hi is getting out of bed.

HI
Yeah, well...

He crosses to the bedroom window and cracks the venetian blind. Orange light filters in.

HIS POV

Beyond a clothes line and a septic tank, a huge orange ball of sun is rising. We can almost hear the roar of its burning surface.

BACK TO HI

Looking.

HI
...Sometimes it's a hard world for little things.

HIS POV

The orange sun, rumbling, perceptibly rising.

ARIZONA HOME FRONT FOYER

At the cut the rumble of the sun is snapped off by the high-pitched ba-WEEEEEEEE... of a strobe going off as a flash picture is taken: We are looking over Nathan Jr.'s shoulder as he stands at his open front door, facing a battery of press people who stand out on the porch.

An obie light over a local TV news camera glares in at us; various flashbulbs pop.

NATHAN
No, the missus and the rest of the kids've left town to I ain't sayin' where. They'll be back here when we're a nuclear fam'ly again.

VOICE
Mr. Arizona, which tot was abducted?

NATHAN
Nathan Jr., I think.

VOICE
Do you have anything to say to the kidnappers?

NATHAN
Yeah: Watch yer butt.

VOICE
Sir, it's been rumored that your son was abducted by UFOS. Would you care to comment?

NATHAN
(sadly) Now don't print that, son. If his mama reads that she's just gonna lose all hope.

A POLICEMAN from inside the house is taking Nathan by the elbow.

POLICEMAN

We really have to ask you some more questions, sir...

As Nathan allows himself to be led back into the house he calls back over his shoulder:

NATHAN

But remember, it's still business as usual at Unpainted Arizona, and if you can find lower prices anywhere my name still ain't Nathan Arizona!

We are following the two, hand-held, as the Police leads Nathan toward the living room.

LIVING ROOM

The room is filled with policemen milling about in several different uniforms: local police, state troopers, plainclothes detectives.

The original Policeman is leading Nathan to a table where a white-smocked technician is preparing inkpad and exemplar sheets.

The dialogue is urgent, rapid-fire and overlapping.

POLICEMAN

Mr. Byrum here can take your exemplars while you talk.

MR. BYRUM has taken Nathan's right hand and is rolling its fingers onto the inkpad.

BYRUM

Just let your hand relax; I'll do the work.

Nathan jerks his hand away.

NATHAN

What is this?! I didn't steal the damn kid!

Two men in conservative suits are approaching.

POLICEMAN

Sir, these men are from the FBI-

NATHAN

(bewildered)
Are you boys crazy?!

All I know is I wake up this morning with my wife screaming-

BYRUM
(patiently)
We just need to distinguish your prints from the perpetrators', if they left any.

Giving his hand back:

NATHAN
Course! I know that!

FBI #1 Sir, we have an indication you were born Nathan Huffhines; is this correct?

NATHAN
Yeah, I changed m'name; what of it?

FBI #2 Could you give us an indication why?

NATHAN
Yeah, would you buy furniture at a store called Unpainted Huffhines?

FBI #1 All right, I'll get to the point-

UNIFORMED COP
Was the child wearing anything when he was abducted?

NATHAN
No one sleeps nekkid in this house, boy! He was wear-

FBI #1 I'm asking the questions here, officer.

COP
If we're gonna put out an APB we need a description of the -

NATHAN
He was wearin' his-

FBI #2 It's just that we're better trained to intervene in crisis situations
(to Nathan)
What was he wearing?

NATHAN
A dinner jacket! Wuddya think, he was wearing his damn jammies!

FBI #2
(to cop)
The child was wearing his jammies.
Are you happy?

FBI #1 Do you have any disgruntled employees?

NATHAN
Hell, they're all disgruntled! I ain't runnin' a damn daisy farm!

COP
What did the pajamas-

NATHAN
My motto is do it my way or watch your butt!

COP
What did the pajamas-

FBI #1 So you think it might have been an employee?

NATHAN
Don't make me laugh. Without my say-so they don't piss with their pants on fire.

COP
What did the pajamas look like?

FBI #1
(pained) Officer-

NATHAN
(bellowing)
I dunno, they were jammies! They had Yodas'n shit on 'em!

BELLOWING VOICE OFFSCREEN
Would ya mind, I'm trying to set up a Command Post here!

Nathan bellows back:

NATHAN
Get your feet off m'damn coffee table!

Also raising his voice at the offscreen bellow:

FBI #1 Ron, you're upsetting the victim.

Nathan is getting worked up.

NATHAN

Damnit, are you boys gonna go chase down your leads or are you gonna sit drinkin' coffee in the one house in the state where I know my boy ain't at?!

FBI #2 Sir, there aren't any "leads" yet, aside from this coat-

NATHAN

Gimme that!

He grabs the overcoat being displayed by FBI #2.

NATHAN

That's a five-hundred-dollar camel's hair-

BYRUM

Sir, you might want to wash your hands at this point.

Nathan realizes that he's gotten ink from his fingerprinting all over the coat.

NATHAN

Well goddamnit!

He is rising to his feet and hurling the coat to the floor.

NATHAN

...No leads?!

He furiously kicks the coat.

NATHAN

...Everyone leaves microbes'n whatnot!

Throughout the speech Nathan stalks the room, working himself into a frenzy, furiously putting coffee cups onto coasters, generally cleaning up, hectoring the police, and swiping their feet off his furniture.

NATHAN

...Hell, that's your forte, trackin' down them microbes left by criminals'n commies'n shit! That's yer whole damn raison d'itre! No leads?! I want Nathan Jr.

back, or whichever the hell one they took! He's out there somewhere! Somethin' leads to him!
And anyone can find him knows the difference between a lead and a hole in the ground!!

HOLE IN THE GROUND - DAY

Specifically, it is the hole in the muddy patch of earth that Gale and Evelle climbed out of. We hear only the squish
- suck of many feet walking around in the mud offscreen.

We are pulling back to reveal the feet-the shiny black patent leather shoes and blue pants cuffs - becoming quickly spattered - of several policemen milling about the hole.

German shepherds sniff around also.

With a roar, motorcycle wheels enter frame. The bike's jackbooted rider casually tools around the hole once; police step back and dogs skitter away to give him room.

He backs toward the camera and stops, standing astride the bike. The burning stub of a cheroot is dropped into frame; it hisses angrily and dies in the mud. We start to crane up.

The whipcracking Biker cue mixes up. The Biker's motorcycle idles with a deep rumble, like the roar of fire on the sun.

We are now framed looking over the Biker's shoulder. The policemen's attitude to him seems to be deferential. One cop in front of him is pointing a direction. The Biker is shaking his head; he doesn't think they went that way.

Suddenly, with a loud whipcrack effect, the Biker's head snaps to profile. He is staring across the field, stock-still, having heard, smelled or sensed something.

The dogs milling around the hole also react, snapping to attention, a split second after the BIKER.

THEIR POV

A jackrabbit is bounding away at the far end of the field.

THE DOGS

After a moment, their attention returns to the hole.

THE BIKER

His attention also returns to the matter at hand. He squints, concentrating. His bike rumbles. Gradually his face sets in a specific direction.

We pan down to the tattoo on his shoulder: "Mama Didn't Love Me." His shoulder flexes once or twice as he revs the throttle; then he puts the bike in gear and it roars out of frame.

TRAILER KITCHEN CLOSE ON GALE AND EVELLE

They are both intently munching cornflakes, staring at something offscreen. After a beat:

EVELLE

...Awful good cereal flakes, Miz McDunnough.

THEIR POV

Ed is sitting in the living room, bottle-feeding Nathan Jr. She is surrounded by the rumpled sheets and blankets used by the house guests. She does not respond to the ice-breaker.

Gale puts his spoon down and picks up a cigarette which has been smoking in the ashtray next to him. There is a bead of milk dribbling down his chin.

He takes a contemplative puff, studying Ed.

GALE

...Whyncha breast feed him? You 'pear to be capable.

ED

Mind your own bidnis.

Through a mouthful of cornflakes:

EVELLE

Ya don't breast feed him, he'll hate you for it later. That's why we wound up in prison.

Gale blows out smoke and picks up his spoon to start back in on his cornflakes.

GALE

Anyway, that's what Doc Schwartz tells us.

Hi is walking in, yawning.

HI

Boys.

EVELLE

Morni', H.I.

Sharply, as Hi sits and starts to pour cornflakes into a bowl:

ED

...Hi.

Hi holds the cornflakes box arrested in mid-air. He looks at Ed, who is motioning to Gale and Evelle with her eyes.

HI

Oh yeah... Say boys, you wouldn't mind makin' yourself scarce for a couple hours this afternoon?

ED

We're havin' some decent friends over.

Gale and Evelle are looking dumbly from Ed to Hi.

HI

Heh-heh... What Ed means to say is, seein' as you two boys are wanted, it wouldn't exactly do to have folks seein' you here - I mean for your own protection.

GALE

Sure H.I.

EVELLE

Anything you say.

More relaxed now, to Ed:

HI

Matter of fact honey, maybe I'll skip this little get-together myself, Glen won't mind, and I'll just duck out with the boys, knock back a couple of-uh, Co-Colas-

GALE

Sure H.I.

EVELLE

We'd love to have ya.

CLOSE ON ED

Looking pleadingly at Hi.

BACK TO HI

Feeling the look, he goes back to his cornflakes.

HI

...Well... maybe that ain't such a hot idea either.

Gale leans back to blow smoke at the ceiling.

GALE

(bitterly)
So many social engagements. So little time.

WIDE SHOT GAS STATION BATHROOM

It is the bathroom where we earlier saw Gale and Evelle combing their hair, now empty.

We are looking toward the door. The bathroom is quiet except for the dripping sink, and the faint rumble of an approaching motorcycle. It grows louder, then begins to recede as the bike shoots by the station.

Suddenly we hear the screech of the bike's brakes.

EXT. THE STATION

We are on the road outside the gas station as the motorcycle screeches to a halt in the foreground. The low wide shot crops the BIKER at his shins. In the background behind him is the gas station.

The Biker pauses for a moment, thinking or feeling.

BACK TO INT. BATHROOM

We hear the rumble of the bike approaching, very loud.

CRASH - the bathroom door flies open as the Biker bursts in astride his hog, bright daylight streaming in with him to throw him into imposing silhouette. The shafts of light pouring in are defined by motes of dust dancing in the air.

HIS POV

Fast track in on the jar of hair jelly sitting on the shelf under the mirror.

BACK TO BIKER

An extreme close shot shows his nostrils dilating as we hear him sniff.

He revs the rumbling bike, stealing thunder from a far mountain.

FRONT STOOP OF TRAILER

Hi, with Ed standing by, is just opening the door to a young couple. Glen is a short stocky blond man in his early thirties, wearing Bermuda shorts. DOT is wearing slacks, heels, and a scarf over her hair.

HI

Glen, Dot-

As the door opens, Dot hops up the stoop shrieking.

DOT

Where's at baby? Where's he at?

From behind, Glen gives her an energetic THWOK on the ass.

GLEN

Go find him honey!

Dot spins and smacks Glen across the face with her purse.

Through clenched teeth:

DOT

Cut it out, Glen!

He reels under the blow.

ED

(quietly)

He's asleep right now.

Dot shrieks again, but this time muffles it with her own hand. She tiptoes into the trailer, hand to her mouth.

Glen, rubbing his cheek, seems angry at himself.

GLEN

Shit, I hope we didn't wake it!

DOT

Can I just sneak a peek-a-loo?

Glen at the top of the stoop, turns out to the yard.

GLEN
Come on kids...

WIDE SHOT GLEN AND DOT'S KIDS

A scad of children, ranging in age from two to seven, are crawling over Hi's car. One is beating on it with a large stick, another sits on the hood pulling back one of the windshield wipers, etc.

GLEN
...Get away from Mr. McDunnough's car.

TRAILER BEDROOM

As Ed and Dot enter, Ed beaming as they go to the crib.

DOT
What's his name?

ED
Uh... Hi Jr. Till we think of a better one.

DOT
Whyncha call him Jason? I love Biblical names. If I had another little boy I'd name him Jason or Caleb or- Oh!

She puts her hand to her forehead, reacting to the baby as if she is about to faint.

DOT
...He's an angel!

She hides her face in her hands and looks away as if blinded, then sneaks a look around her hands.

DOT
...He's an angel straight from heaven! Now honey I had all my kids the hard way so you gotta tell me where you got this angel. Did he fly straight down from heaven?

ED
Well-

DOT
You gonna send him to Arizona State?

TRAILER LIVING ROOM / KITCHEN

The weaving knee-level tracking shot is following a six-year-old boy in shorts and a dirty T-shirt as he tramps around the trailer, brandishing a big stick. He strikes the walls, furniture, various other objects with his stick, hollering "Bam! Bam-Bam!" with each blow.

The track weaves off him and onto Hi, who is bending down to pull a couple of beers from the refrigerator. He raises his voice to make himself heard over the din of all the children boiling around the room:

HI
Need a beer, Glen?

GLEN
Does the Pope wear a funny hat?

Hi considers this.

HI
...Well yeah, Glen, I guess it is kinda funny.

GLEN
Say, that reminds me! How many Pollacks it take to screw up a lightbulb?

HI
I don't know Glen, one?

Hi looks down.

One of Glen's children, in a cowboy hat, is squirting a squirt gun into his crotch area.

GLEN
Nope, it takes three!

He starts laughing, then catches himself.

GLEN
...Wait a minute, I told it wrong. Here, I'm startin' over: How come it takes three Pollacks to screw up a lightbulb?

HI
I don't know, Glen.

GLEN
Cause they're so durn stupid!

He laughs; Hi doesn't react.

GLEN

...Shit man, loosen up! Don't ya get it?

Hi looks over at the TV, which the bam-shouting six-year-old is banging with his stick.

HI

No Glen, I sure don't.

GLEN

Shit man, think about it! I guess it's what they call a Way Homer.

HI

Why's that?

GLEN

Cause you only get it on the Way Home.

HI

I'm already home, Glen.

The kid in the cowboy hat is reaching up to slap Hi on the ass.

KID

You wetchaself! Mr. McDunnough wet hisseff, Daddy!

GLEN

Say, that reminds me! How'd you get that kid s'darned fast? Me'n Dottie went in to adopt on account of something went wrong with m'semen, and they told us five years' wait for a healthy white baby! I said healthy white baby! Five years! Okay, what else you got? Said, two Koreans and one Negro born with the heart outside...

He takes a sip of beer.

GLEN

...Yeah, it's a crazy world.

HI

Someone oughta sell tickets.

GLEN
Sure, I'd buy one.

Hi is looking at another child who is just finishing off the T in FART in crayon on the wall.

Glen chuckles, looking at his errant child.

GLEN
...That Buford's a sly one. Already knows his ABCs. But I'm sayin', how'd ya get the kid?

HI
Well this whole thing is just who knows who and favoritism. Ed has a friend at one of the agencies.

GLEN
Well maybe she can do something for me'n Dot. See there's something wrong with m'semen. Say, that reminds me! What you gonna call him?

HI
Uh, Ed-Ed Jr.

GLEN
Thought you said he was a boy.

HI
Well, as in Edward. Just like that name.

GLEN
(not really interested)
Yeah, it's a good one... Course I don't really need another kid, but Dottie says these-here are gettin' too big to cuddle. Say, that reminds me!

The sound of shattering glass. Glen looks around.

GLEN
Mind ya don't cutchaseff, Mordecai...

EXT. PICNIC GROUNDS

Dot faces Hi and Ed across a picnic table covered with grilled hamburgers, rolls, green jello mold, cooler, etc.

One of the younger children sits in the middle of the table, occasionally taking a fistful of jello and flinging it at Hi. The two women don't seem to notice.

DOT

...and then there's diphtheria-tetanus, what they call dip-tet. You gotta get him dip-tet boosters yearly or else he'll get lockjaw and night vision. Then there's the smallpox vaccine, chicken pox and measles, and if your kid's like ours you gotta take all those shots first to get him to take 'em. Who's your pediatrician, anyway?

ED

We ain't exactly fixed on one yet. Have we Hi?

Hi sits stock-still with a stony face.

ED

...No, I guess we don't have one yet.

Dot shrieks.

DOT

Well you just gotta have one! You just gotta have one this instant!

ED

Yeah, what if the baby gets sick, honey?

DOT

Hi, even if he don't get sick he's gotta have his dip-tet!

ED

He's gotta have his dip-tet, honey.

Hi shrugs, then flinches as a piece of jello hits his shoulder.

HI

...Uh-huh.

DOT

You started his bank accounts?

ED

Have we done that honey? We gotta do that honey. What's that for, Dot?

DOT

That-there's for his orthodonture and his college. You soak his thumb in iodine you might get by without the orthodonture, but it won't knock any off the college.

Hi sits stoically. Dot is looking offscreen:

DOT

...Reilly, take that diaper off your head and put it back on your sister!... Anyway, you probably got the life insurance all squared away.

ED

You done that yet honey?

DOT

You gotta do that, Hi! Ed here's got her hands full with that little angel!

HI

(dully)
Yes ma'am.

DOT

What would Ed and the angel do if a truck came along and splattered your brains all over the interstate? Where would you be then?

ED

Yeah honey, what if you get run over?

DOT

Or you got carried off by a twister?

LAKESIDE PATH

We are tracking on Hi and Glen as they walk side by side. Glen is sopping wet, wearing only swimming suit and wing-tipped shoes.

His body is ghostly pale except for a V-area at his neck and his arms below the short-sleeve line, which are a bright angry red.

GLEN

Hear about the person of the Polish persuasion he walks into a bar holdin' a pile of shit in his hands, says "Look what I almost stepped in."

Glen bursts out laughing; Hi walks on in silence.

HI

...Yeah, that's funny all right...

GLEN

Ya damn right it's funny! Shit man, what's the matter?

HI

I dunno... maybe it's wife, kids, family life... I mean are you, uh, satisfied Glen? Don't y'ever feel suffocated? Like, like there's somethin' big pressin' down...

GLEN

(solemnly)

Eeeeeyep... I do know the feelin'.

Hi shakes his head.

HI

Dunno-

GLEN

And I told Dottie to lose some weight but she don't wanna listen!

He roars with laughter and slaps Hi heartily on the back. As he chuckles sympathetically:

GLEN

...No man, I know what you mean. You got all kinds a responsibilities now. You're married, ya got a kid, looks like your whole life's set down and where's the excitement?

HI

Yeah Glen, I guess that's it.

GLEN

Okay! That's the disease, but there is a cure.

HI

Yeah?

GLEN

Sure; Doctor Glen is tellin' ya you can heal thyself.

HI

What do I gotta do?

GLEN

Well you just gotta broaden your mind a little bit. I mean say I asked you, what do you think about Dot?

HI

(puzzled)

Fine woman you got there.

Glen is eyeing him shrewdly.

GLEN

Okay. Now it might not look like it, but lemme tell you something: She's a hellcat.

HI

That right?

GLEN

T-I-G-E-R.

HI

But what's that got to do with-

GLEN

Don't rush me!

He stops walking. Hi stops also, looking at Glen, Still puzzled. Glen lays a companionable hand on his shoulder.

GLEN

Now the thing about Dot is, she thinks- and she's told me this-

He looks around as if to make sure they are not being overheard. His tone is confidential.

GLEN
...she thinks... you're cute.

Hi looks suspiciously at Glen's hand on his shoulder.

HI
...Yeah...?

Glen nods energetically:

GLEN
I'm crappin' you negative! And I could say the same about Ed!

Through tightly clenched teeth:

HI
What're you talkin' about, Glen?

GLEN
What'm I talkin' about?! I'm talkin' about sex, boy! What the hell're you talkin' about?! You know, "L'amour"?! I'm talkin' me'n Dot are Swingers! As in "to Swing"!
Wife-swappin'! What they call nowadays Open Marriage!

Beaming, he takes his hand off Hi's shoulder and spreads his arms.

GLEN
I'm talkin' about the Sex Revolution! I'm talkin' about-

THWAK - Hi's fist swings into frame to connect solidly with Glen's jaw.

Glen's feet leave the ground. He flies back and lands in a heap.

LOW-ANGLE REVERSE

Glen in the foreground, groggily rubbing his jaw; Hi approaching menacingly.

HI
Keep your goddamned hands off my wife!

GLEN Shit man!

He is scrambling to his feet.

GLEN

...I was only tryin' to help!

HI

Keep your goddamned hands off my wife!

With Hi still advancing, Glen starts to run.

TRACKING ON GLEN

With Hi pursuing in the background.

Glen is looking back over his shoulder to shout at Hi as he runs.

GLEN

You're crazy! I feel pity for you, man! You-

CRASH! - Glen runs smack into a tree and drops like a sack of cement.

INT. CAR NIGHT

Hi is driving, his jaw rigidly set, his temple throbbing.

Nathan Jr. sits in a safety seat between him and Ed.

ED

We finally go out with some decent people and you break his nose. That ain't too funny, Hi.

HI

(stolidly)

His kids seemed to think it was funny.

ED

Well they're just kids, you're a grown man with responsibilities. Whatever possessed you?

HI

He was provokin' me when I popped him.

ED

How'd he do that?

HI

...Never mind.

ED

But Hi, he's your foreman, he's just gonna fire you now.

HI

I expect he will.

ED

And where does that leave me and Nathan Jr.?

HI

With a man for a husband.

He is pulling into a convenience store parking lot.

ED

That ain't no answer.

HI

Honey, that's the only answer.

He puts the car in park but leaves it running.

HI

...Nathan needs some Huggies. I'll be out directly.

As he gets out of the car:

HI

...Mind you stay strapped in.

INT. STORE

A hand enters to take a package of panty hose from the standing rack.

CLOSE SHOT HUGGIES

A hand enters to take a big carton of disposable diapers from the shelf.

CLOSEUP CASHIER

A pimply-faced lad with a paper 7-Eleven cap on his head. He is looking up from a dirty magazine, reacting in horror to something approaching.

HI'S POV

Hi is approaching the check-out island with a gun in one hand, the carton of Huggies tucked under the other.

The L'Eggs stocking is pulled over his head to distort his features.

HI
I'll be taking these Huggies and whatever cash you got.

CLOSE SHOT CASHIER'S HAND

As he presses a silent alarm under the lip of his counter.

EXT. CAR

Ed is reading to Nathan Jr. from a large picture book.

ED
"Not by the hair of my chinny-chin-chin." Then I'll huff and I'll puff...'

She pauses for a moment, listening. We can barely hear a distant siren. She resumes absently, but her voice trails off.

ED
"...and I'll blow your house in..."

We can definitely hear the WHOO-WHOO of the siren now, and it is definitely approaching. Ed hooks an arm around the seat and looks behind the car, then looks forward.

HER POV

Indistinctly visible through the semi-reflective glass are two figures at the check-out island. One is pointing something at the other.

BACK TO ED

As the siren is growing louder. Under her breath:

ED
That son-of-a-bitch.

She unstraps herself and gets out of the car.

INT. STORE

Two-shot of Hi and the CASHIER, who is stuffing bills into a grocery bag. Beyond them we can see Ed, outside, circling the front of the car.

Her shout is muffled through the glass:

ED
You son-of-a-bitch!

With this Hi notices her. He turns to the Cashier.

HI
Better hurry it up. I'm in dutch with the wife.

But Ed is already getting into the driver's seat of the car.

BACK TO ED

As she slams the car door shut. The siren is quite loud now.

ED
That son-of-a-bitch. Hang on, pumpkin.

The car squeals out of the lot.

WIDE SHOT THE STREET

The squad car tops a rise to bounce into view, its siren wailing.

BACK TO THE STORE

Hi bursts out the door, still wearing the stocking. The carton of Huggies is still tucked under one arm.

Bellowing hopefully after his departing car:

HI
Honey!

We hear the SMACK-CRACK of a gunshot and glass impact, but the approaching squad car is still too far down the block to have been the source.

Hi looks around the parking lot, bewildered.

The wailing siren is becoming painfully loud.

Hi looks behind him at the plate-glass front of the store, where a bullet pock mars the glass.

HIS POV

Through the glass we see the pimply young Cashier with the paper 7-Eleven cap pop up from behind the counter to sight down his huge .44 Magnum for another shot. The gun is so big he uses both hands to heft it.

SMACK-CRACK - the bullet kisses another hole in the glass.

Hi is off and running.

The squad car is screeching into the lot. An officer tumbles out of the passenger side before the car is fully stopped. He rolls on the pavement, then hurriedly rights himself and takes up a half-kneeling shooting stance.

At the same time the little Cashier is emerging from the 7-Eleven with his gun.

The two bang away at Hi's retreating figure - the Policeman's revolver popping, the Cashier's Magnum booming.

We hear the Policeman who is still in the car drawling over its loudspeaker:

SPEAKER

Halt. It's a police warning, son.
Put those groceries down and turn yourself in.

TRACKING ON HI

Legs pumping, panty hose still over his head, its unused leg streaming behind him like an aviator's scarf. The gun is tucked into his belt; the Huggies are tucked securely under his arm.

Behind him we can see the OFFICER and the Cashier squeeze off another couple shots, and then the policeman piles back into the squad car.

ED'S CAR

Driving. She hears distant gunshots.

ED

That son of a bitch... Hold on,
Nathan. We're gonna go pick up Daddy.

She hangs a vicious U-turn.

TRACKING ON HI

Huffing and puffing down the road with his Huggies.

The cop car careens onto the street in the background, its siren wailing.

The PASSENGER COP is leaning far out his window, one hand gripping the light-and-siren rack, the other pointing a gun at Hi, shooting away.

Bullets whizz past.

Suddenly, with a soft pthunk! the Huggies box pops forward, out from under Hi's arm - hit by a bullet. Still running, Hi reaches forward, tries to catch it on the fly, bobbles it, tips it - loses it. He overruns it a couple steps before he can bring himself up short.

He turns and reaches to pick up the box but - PING-PING - bullets chew up the road near his hand.

Leaving the Huggies, Hi takes off through a well-manicured yard.

The police car is proceeding on down the street to catch him around the corner, the driver still drawling over his loudspeaker:

SPEAKER

That's private property, son. Come back out to the street and reveal yourself to Officer Steensma and Officer Scott - that's me.

YARD

Hi vaults a fence to land in the backyard.

As he straightens to his feet we hear a horrible snarling and barking.

A huge black Doberman is bounding across the lawn. It looks like it means to rip Hi's throat out.

LOW TRACKING SHOT TOWARD HI

The dog's racing POV as it bounds toward the paralyzed Hi.

The dog leaps - camera flying up toward Hi's face - and:

CLOSE SHOT HI'S FROZEN PROFILE

The dog's slavering muzzle flies into frame and - stops, bare inches from Hi's nose, and the dog falls back, having reached the end of his chain.

Hi resumes running.

CLOSE

On the dog, snarling and straining against the end of his chain.

TRACKING

Down along the chain toward the spike mooring it to the ground. As the dog strains, the spike starts to stir in the ground.

Other dogs can be heard barking now, the Doberman having started a sympathetic wave.

ED'S CAR

Her jaw set, she takes a hard turn, looking this way and that.

ED

That son of a bitch...

The police car approaches and roars by, the Passenger Cop still hanging out his window.

ED

...Lookie Nathan, a police car...

She is looking in her rearview mirror.

ED

...Say, that looks like Bill Steensma.

LOW TRACKING SHOT

The camera is shooting forward at ground level, following the Doberman as it bounds along. The Doberman is dragging his chain and spike, which stretch into the foreground, bumping and scraping along the road.

Far ahead we can see Hi running, then turning down an intersecting street.

A second dog peels into the road to bound along with the Doberman.

TRACKING BEHIND HI

Running up a dark street. There is an oncoming pickup. Hi runs directly at it.

INT. PICKUP

The DRIVER screams and brakes - not quite in time.

Hi rolls onto the hood, and off, and gamely trots over to open the passenger door.

The Driver is leaning over to tell him:

DRIVER
Son, you got a panty on your head.

HI
Just drive fast...

He is displaying his gun as he starts to climb in.

HI
...and don't stop till I tell ya.

Before Hi can get his door shut the Driver is obediently peeling out.

Hi is reacting to an oncoming car. He peels the stocking off to look, and leans across the Driver's lap to bellow as Ed's car passes:

HI
...Honey!

Hi turns to look through the back window.

HIS POV

Ed's car is braking and spinning into a U-turn.

BACK TO HI

Leaning out the window.

HI
Mind the baby now!

Next to him, the Driver is screaming.

As Hi turns forward, the entire windshield explodes in.

THEIR POV

The pimply-faced Cashier from the 7-Eleven is standing in the middle of the road ahead, sighting down his .44 Magnum for another shot.

We are rushing in.

THE DRIVER

Still screaming.

THE CASHIER

Ready to fire and - THUMP - he is bowled over by the arriving Doberman, still trailing chain and spike, and now accompanied by three other dogs, all braying at the top of their lungs.

Still screaming, the Driver puts his body into a hard right turn to avoid the Cashier and hellhounds.

NEW STREET

Roaring up the new street, they are now directly in the path of the oncoming police car, its siren wailing, barreling straight at them.

Still screaming, the Driver leans into another hard right.

Wind is whistling in through where the windshield used to be.

Two wheels hop curb as the car skids into the new street, fishtails, and roars away.

ED'S CAR

She hears dogs, siren, squealing brakes on an adjacent street.

ED

Hold on Nathan, we'll take a shortcut.

She gives the wheel a hard right turn.

But there is no cross street. The car hops the curb and roars up someone's nicely tended front yard, heading for the gap between this house and the one next door.

POLICE CAR

Recovered and turned around from its near collision with the SCREAMING; Driver, the squad car is now squealing onto the street the Screamer swerved on to - resuming pursuit.

As the police car roars down the street, Ed's car appears from between two houses behind it, bounces down the front yard to the street and follows the police.

SCREAMER'S PICKUP

Raking two-shot of Hi and the Screamer. Hi is looking back over his shoulder at the pursuing police.

Desperately pleading:

SCREAMER
Can I stop now?

Hi looks forward.

HIS POV

They are rushing toward an imposing colonial house planted at the end of the dead-end street.

BACK TO HI

HI
Maybe you better.

CLOSE SHOT BRAKE PEDAL

Stepped on hard. The brakes scream.

EXT. CAR

As the car squeals to a halt Hi is catapulted through where the windshield used to be, tumbling over the hood onto the front lawn.

He rolls to his feet and, as he runs up the lawn, calls back over his shoulder:

HI
Thank you.

INTO THE HOUSE

We are tracking behind Hi as he runs up to the house and crashes through the screen door.

Still tracking behind him as he runs through the living room.

A middle-aged couple sits on the couch watching TV. They look up as Hi rushes by.

Hi plunges down a staircase. As he does so we hear: ka-chick ka-chock ka-chick ka-chock.

He emerges into a rec room where he and we rush past two kids playing ping-pong. He runs out the back door.

TRACKING WITH THE POLICEMAN

As he runs into the house.

As he runs through the living room we catch a glimpse of the middle-aged couple gaping at him.

OFFICER STEENSMA plunges down the stairs.

TRACKING ON HI

Outdoors now, running, crossing the street behind the house and entering the parking lot of a supermarket on the other side.

BACK TO THE HOUSE

As a pack of dogs thunders in. The lead Doberman with chain and spike has now picked up about a dozen neighborhood dogs.

The dogs thunder through the living room and down the stairs. As they hit the rec room the thunder of their feet turns into the clatter of nails on tile.

INT. SUPERMARKET

As Hi bursts in. Tracking on him as he runs down the broad front aisle, head whipping as he runs, looking up each perpendicular lane, searching for something.

He turns up one of the last lanes, races along it and grabs a carton of Huggies, still on the flat run.

He emerges into the broad back aisle and runs along it, but at the first perpendicular lane he hits, we see Officer Steensma, gun leveled, at the other end. He fires.

Hi keeps running.

The Policeman is running along the front aisle, keeping pace with Hi running along the back aisle. He squeezes off shots at Hi as each lane gives him the opportunity.

Hi abruptly stops between lanes and doubles back, losing the Policeman. He runs down the second lane he comes to toward the front of the store.

The pack of dogs appears at the end of the lane and thunders up toward Hi, braying at the top of their doggy lungs. The lead Doberman holds in his teeth a paper 7-Eleven cap.

Hi reverses again, and emerges into the back aisle.

BANG! A pyramid of cranberry juice explodes at his shoulder. The Policeman has been waiting at the end of the back aisle; he aims once again.

Hi plunges down the next lane but is brought up short as KA-BOOM! five jars of applesauce explode in front of him.

Hi looks.

Standing in the raised platform-cubicle at the front of the store is the Store Manager, a fat man in a white short-sleeved shirt with a lit cigarette dangling from his mouth.

The Manager cracks open his shotgun and inserts two more cartridges - THOONK THOONK - in the smoking chamber.

Hi doubles back once again toward the back aisle.

He is still several paces from the end of the lane when the Policeman appears there, squaring to face him.

The Policeman is in front of him. The MANAGER is blowing out groceries on the shelves behind him.

CLOSE ON POLICEMAN

As he coolly levels his police special and takes aim at Hi .

POLICEMAN'S POV

Still on the dead run, Hi is flinging the carton of Huggies. The carton rockets straight at the camera.

BACK TO POLICEMAN

Futilely raising his gun to avoid-impact: The Huggies catch him square on the chest. The force makes him stumble one fatal step backwards - into the back aisle - where:

CRASH - He is hit broadside and bowled over by a rocketing shopping cart, propelled by an hysterically screaming SHOPPER.

TRACKING ON SHOPPER

Racing on down the back aisle, bellowing.

HER FEET

Tracking from in front. Beyond her we can see the pack of furiously barking dogs, nipping at her heels. They boil over the prostrate Officer Steensma, and this is the last we see of him in this movie.

EXT. STORE

As Hi emerges through the back door. Ed is just skidding around the corner.

Hi scrambles in the passenger side.

INT. CAR

Raking two-shot with Hi in the foreground. The car peels out of the lot.

HI
Thank you honey, you really didn't have to do this-

THWAK - Ed gives him a good hard slap and Hi's head rolls toward the camera.

ED
You son-of-a-bitch! You're actin' like a mad dog!

Rubbing his jaw:

HI
Turn left, honey.

Still at top speed, she leans into a hard left, tires squealing.

ED
What if me'n the baby'd been picked up? Nathan Jr. would a been accessory to armed robbery!

HI
Nawww honey, it ain't armed robbery if the gun ain't loaded-

ED
What kind of home life is this for a toddler?! You're supposed to be an example!

HI
Now honey, I never postured myself as the three-piece suit type - Turn left, dear.

ED
We got a child now, everything's changed!

HI

Well Nathan Jr. accepts me for what I am and I think you better had, too. You know, honey, I'm okay you're okay? That - there's what it is.

ED

I know, but honey -

HI

See I come from a long line of frontiersmen and - here it is, turn here dear - frontiersmen and outdoor types.

Hi's eyes are fixed on something in the road ahead.

ED

I'm not gonna live this way, Hi. It just ain't family life!

Hi's attention is still on the road. He is opening his door, even though the car is still racing along. He absently concedes:

HI

Well... It ain't Ozzie and Harriet.

LOW ANGLE THE STREET

In the extreme foreground sits the first carton of Huggies that Hi dropped in the middle of the road. The car is approaching.

As the car passes the carton, Hi's hand reaches from the passenger door and snags it.

REVERSE

As Hi pulls the carton in and slams his door shut. Crane up in the car speeding away.

TRAILER LIVING ROOM

As Ed bursts in the front door, holding Nathan Jr.

ED

You two are leaving.

ON GALE AND EVELLE

They look up, dumbstruck and mortified, from the sofa where they have been watching TV.

ED

Tomorrow morning. Now I got nothing against you personally...

Gale and Evelle look appealingly toward Hi, who shifts uncomfortably behind Ed.

ED

...but you're wanted by the authorities and you're a bad influence in this household, in my opinion.

GALE

Well ma'am... we sure didn't mean to influence anyone.

EVELLE

And if we did, we apologize.

Ed is unmoved.

ED

I'm goin' in to town tomorrow to see about some shots for the baby.
When I come back you better be gone or I'll kick you out myself.

She storms into the bedroom and slams the door.

There is an awkward silence as Gale studies his thumb and Evelle stares at the ceiling. Finally Evelle turns to Hi.

EVELLE

...What's he need, his dip-tet?

HI

I'm awful sorry boys, but when Ed gets mad, you know, when she gets an idea...

GALE

Well there ain't a thing to apologize for, H.I...

He looks at Evelle.

GALE

...It seems pretty clear what the situation is here.

EVELLE

Yeah, I guess the Missus wants us to clear out.

GALE

Now H.I., you'll pardon me for sayin' so, but I get the feelin' that this- here...

His gesture seems to take in the trailer and the entire domestic situation.

GALE

...ain't exactly workin' out.

HI

Well now Ed's generally a real sweetheart, I-

GALE

And as per usual, I wouldn't be surprised if the source of the marital friction was financial.

HI

Well, matter of fact, I did lose my job today-

EVELLE

Come on Hi. you're young, you got your health - what do you want with a job?

GALE

But look, I'd rather light a candle than curse your darkness. As you know, Evelle'n I never go anywhere without a reason... and here we are in your little domicile. We come to invite you in on a score.

EVELLE

A bank, Hi.

Hi is shaking his head.

HI

Aw boys, I don't-

GALE

I know you're partial to convenience stores but, H.I., the sun don't rise and set on the corner grocery.

EVELLE

It's like Doc Schwartz says: You gotta have a little ambition.

Why we just heard on the news how somebody snatched off one of the Arizona babies. Now there's someone thinkin' big.

GALE

And here you are sittin' around on your butt playin' house with a - don't get me wrong, H.I., with a fine woman - but a woman who needs the button-down type.

HI

Well now that ain't really any of your-

GALE

Just lookahere...

He is handing Hi a folded-up picture.

EVELLE

Picture of El Dorado, Hi.

GALE

Though the locals call it the Farmers and Mechanics Bank of LaGrange. Looks like a hayseed bank and, tell you the truth, it is a hayseed bank. Except the last Friday of every financial quarter there's more cash in that bank than flies at a barbecue.

EVELLE

And guess what day it is tomorrow?

GALE

Ya see, H.I., it's when the hayseeds come in to cash their farm subsidy checks.

EVELLE

A-One information.

GALE

Got it in the joint from a guy named Lawrence Spivey, one of Dick Nixon's undersecretaries of agriculture.

EVELLE

He's in for solicitin' sex from a state trooper.

GALE

Ordinarily we don't associate with that class of person, but...

Gale chuckles.

GALE

...he was tryin' to make brownie points with some of the boys.

HI

Boys, I can't -

EVIELLE

We need someone handy with a scatter-gun to cover the hayseeds while we get the cash.

GALE

Y'understand, H.I., if this works out it's just the beginning of a spree across the entire Southwest proper. We keep goin' 'till we can retire - or we get caught.

EVELLE

Either way we're fixed for life.

Hi is still shaking his head.

HI

Boys, it's a kind offer, but you're suggesting I just up'n leave Ed. Now that'd be pretty damn cowardly, wouldn't it.

GALE

Would it? Think about it, H.I. Seems to me, stayin' here, y'ain't doin' her any good. And y'ain't bein' true to your own nature.

The camera has floated in to a close shot of Hi, staring glumly at GALE.

TRACKING ON MOTORCYCLE NIGHT

Following it, very close, we see only its rear wheel and fender and twin exhaust pipes, one on either side. Flame is boiling in each exhaust pipe as the hog roars.

HIGHER TRACKING SHOT

From behind the Biker's head as he rides through the night. With the sharp whipcrack effect he suddenly looks left, searching. With a second whipcrack effect he suddenly looks right, still searching.

He banks into a turn.

EXT. TRAILER

Creeping in. Late at night. We are tracking in toward the one window that is illuminated, with a feeble yellow light.

In voice-over, Hi is composing a letter.

VOICE OVER

My dearest Edwinna. Tonight as you and Nathan slumber, my heart is filled with anguish.

DISSOLVE THROUGH TO

INT. TRAILER

Creeping in on Hi 's hunched back, as he sits over the kitchen table writing the letter. The yellow lamp sitting on the table is the only light on in the trailer.

VOICE OVER

...I hope that you will both understand, and forgive me for what I have decided I must do. By the time you read this, I will be gone.

DISSOLVE THROUGH TO

LIVING ROOM

Creeping in on GALE and EVELLE, sprawled on the sofa and easy chair respectively, sawing boards.

VOICE OVER

...I will never be the man that you want me to be, the husband and father that you and Nathan deserve...

DISSOLVE THROUGH TO

BACK TO HI

Still creeping in.

VOICE OVER

Maybe it's my upbringing; maybe it's just that my genes got screwed up - I don't know...

DISSOLVE THROUGH TO

INT. 7-ELEVEN

Creeping in on the pimply-faced Cashier, sitting asleep behind the counter, a dirty magazine lying face-down, open on his chest.

VOICE OVER

But the events of the last day have showed, amply, that I don't have the strength of character to raise up a family...

We are slowly panning over to the newspaper rack, revealing tomorrow's headline: "WHERE IS NATHAN JR.?"

VOICE OVER

...in the manner befitting a responsible adult, and not like the wild man from Borneo.

DISSOLVE THROUGH TO

ARIZONA HOME

Creeping in on Nathan Jr. in the living room, asleep in his ottoman armchair, lit only by the snow from the TV set he is facing, a half-full glass of milk on the coffee table next to him.

His robe is disheveled; his eyeglasses have slid down his nose.

VOICE OVER

...I say all this to my shame.

DISSOLVE THROUGH TO

TRAILER BEDROOM

Creeping in on Ed and Nathan Jr., asleep together in the double bed. Ed's arm is draped protectively over the sleeping infant.

VOICE OVER

...I will love you always, truly and deeply.

But I fear that if I stay I would only bring bad trouble...

We start to hear the rumble of the motorcycle mix up again.

VOICE OVER

...on the heads of you and Nathan Jr.

DISSOLVE THROUGH TO

BLACKNESS

Night sky. The motorcycle tire enters frame as the bike comes to a halt. The Biker plants a jackbooted foot in the foreground.

The engine rumbles.

VOICE OVER

I feel the thunder gathering even now; if I leave, hopefully, it will leave with me.

We are craning up over the Biker's back to reveal what he is looking at: We are on a bluff overlooking the trailer park.
In the window of one trailer below, a yellow light glows.

VOICE OVER

I cannot tarry...

DISSOLVE THROUGH TO

BACK TO HI

Still creeping in.

VOICE OVER

Better I should go, send you money, and let you curse my name. Your loving... Herbert.

FADE OUT

FIRE

Roaring at the cut. Through it we can see the Biker sitting on the ground, legs stretched out in front of him, back resting against his parked motorcycle, arms folded across his chest.

Perfectly motionless, he stares at the campfire.

We are floating in toward him.

As we come closer, eventually drawing in to a close shot of his face, we gradually realize something peculiar about his eyes: He seems to have none. Although his eyes are unblinkingly open we do not see eyeballs, but only fire - either a reflection of the campfire or something roaring - burning-inside.

CLOSE SHOT DOOR MAT

It reads: "Come On In! To Unpainted Arizona."

The smoking butt of a cheroot is dropped onto the mat. A jackbooted foot grinds it out.

CLOSE SHOT BAR ON GLASS DOOR

Leading into the showroom. The Biker's mail-and-chained fist pushes the door open.

LOW WIDE TRACKING SHOT

Behind the jackboots as they stroll through a showroom of unpainted furniture and bathroom fixtures.

TRACKING ON THE MAILED HAND

Swinging as he walks, the Biker's hand produces a fresh cheroot from no apparent source-either sleight-of-hand or magic.

THE OTHER HAND

Similarly producing a long wooden match.

DISCOLORED TEETH

Biting down on the cigar.

HAND

Dragging the kitchen match along the unfinished wood surface of an expensive bureau, leaving an ugly black scar.

The match erupts into roaring flame.

CIGAR

Crackling as it is lit.

DOOR

Reading "Executive Offices." The mailed fist pushes it open.

PEBBLED GLASS DOOR

From the inside of the office. The name on the pebbled glass is a backwards Nathan Arizona.

There is the shadow of a man approaching the door, and muffled voices.

SECRETARY'S VOICE

I'm sorry, Mr. Arizona, he just barged in...

The door swings open and Nathan stands looking in, his middle- aged secretary hanging at his elbow.

SECRETARY'S VOICE

...Should I call Dewayne?

Nathan is staring toward his desk.

NATHAN

Hell no, why wake the security guard. I'll take care a this.

The secretary leaves.

NATHAN'S POV

The Biker sits with his back to us, jackboots propped lazily on the desk.

His head bobs and ducks, as if he is following some movement in the air in front of him.

BACK TO NATHAN

Eyes on the Biker he slams the door shut behind him, looking for some reaction.

BIKER

No reaction. His head continues to bob and duck.

BACK TO NATHAN

Circling the Biker as he crosses to sit behind his desk.

HIS POV

Arcing around to reveal the Biker's face. He still does not react to Nathan, not even bothering to give him a glance.

His eyes continue to follow some phantom movement.

When the Biker speaks it is still without looking at Nathan, and with a surprisingly soft voice and mild, unhurried manner:

BIKER
You got flies.

He finally looks at Nathan, and smiles faintly.

NATHAN
I doubt it. This place's climate-controlled, all the windows are sealed. Who the hell are you?

BIKER
Name of Leonard Smalls. My friends call me Lenny...

He takes a drag on his cigar.

BIKER
...Only I ain't got no friends.

NATHAN
Stop, you'll make me bust out crying. Listen Leonard, you want some furniture or a shitbox, they're out on the sales floor.

SMALLS is pleasantly shaking his head.

SMALLS
Nooo, I ain't a customer, I'm a manhunter. Ordinarily. Though I do hunt babies, on occasion. Hear you got one you can't put your hand to.

NATHAN
What do you know about it?

SMALLS
Wal, that's my business. I'm a tracker- part Hopi Indian, some say part hound dog. When some dink skips bail, crashes outta the joint, I'm the man they call.

NATHAN
Mister, I got the cops, the state troopers and the Federal-B-I already lookin' for my boy. Now if you got information I strongly advise-

SMALLS

Cop won't find your boy. Cop couldn't find his own butt if it had a bell on it. Wanna find an outlaw, call an outlaw. Wanna find a Dunkin Donuts, call a cop.

NATHAN

Smalls, first off, take your damn feet off m'furniture. Second off, it's widely known I posted a twenty grand reward for my boy. If you can find him, claim it. Short of that what do we got to talk about?

SMALLS

Price. Fair price. And that ain't whatever you say it is; fair price is what the market'll bear. Now there are people, mind you, there are people in this land, who'll pay a lot more'n twenty grand for a healthy baby.

Nathan is looking at him stonily.

NATHAN

What're you after?

SMALLS

Give you an idea, when I was a lad I m'self fetched twenty-five thousand on the black market. And them's 1954 dollars. I'm sayin, fair price. For fifty grand I'll track him, find him-

Quick as a flash the heretofore languid Smalls bolts forward, his fist stopped an inch short of Nathan's nose.

EXTREME CLOSE SHOT SMALLS' FINGERS

His index finger and thumb are pinched together-holding the leg of a struggling fly that he has just plucked from the air.

SMALLS

...and the people that took him...

He flicks the fly away.

SMALLS

...I'll kick their butts.

He sits back down.

SMALLS
...No extra charge.

Nathan stares grimly at Smalls.

NATHAN
And if I don't pay?

SMALLS
Oh I'll get your boy regardless.
Cause if you don't pay, the market will.

NATHAN
You wanna know what I think? I think you're an evil man. I think this is nothin' but a goddamn screw job. I think it's a shakedown. I think you're the one took Nathan Jr. and my fine friend, I think you're the one gonna get his butt kicked...

Nathan swivels to punch numbers on a telephone.

NATHAN
I think I'm on the phone to the cops right now, and I-

He swivels back, looking up, and his speech stops short.

HIS POV

The office is empty. A whipcrack effect builds to the cut and:

CLOSE ON HI

His eyes snap open as the whipcrack echoes away.

He has been slumped over the kitchen table, asleep.

GALE (O.S.)
Up and attem, H.I. Today is the first day of the rest of your life...

EVELLE (O.S.)
...and already you're fuckin' it up.

Hi looks up.

Gale and Evelle are smiling down at him.

EVELLE

Come on, the missus'll be back from town soon.

Hi takes the envelope that he was slumped over, to Ed written on its face. As he sticks it to the refrigerator door with a broccoli magnet:

HI

Where's the baby?

EVELLE

Bedroom, in his crib.

GALE

He's sawin' toothpicks, he'll be fine.

There is a harsh knock at the door. All three tense.

GALE

...You expectin' anybody?

Hi is staring. The knock comes again.

HI

No. You two stay outta sight.

He goes to the door, pulls back its shade and peeks out. Under his breath:

HI

Shit.

He opens the door.

EXT. TRAILER

It is Glen. He backs nervously down to the foot of the stoop as Hi stands in the half open doorway. Glen comes to rest a few feet away from the stoop.

He is wearing a neckbrace. The bridge of his eyeglasses is taped together. Cotton wadding is stuffed up his nose, which is darkly discolored. He holds a rolled up newspaper.

His station wagon is parked behind him, idling.

HI

Morning Glen.

Glen speaks in a very nasal voice:

GLEN

I ain't comin' in if ya don't mind.
I'll just keep my distance.

HI

I didn't invite you in, Glen.

GLEN

Well don't even bother. First off, you're fired - and that's official.

HI

I kinda figured that, Glen.

GLEN

Well that ain't why I'm here neither. No sir. You're in a whole shitload of trouble, my friend.

Hi is looking at him evenly.

HI

Why don't you just calm down, Glen.

GLEN

Why don't you make me?! Know that little baby you got in there?
Remember him? I know what his real name is!

Hi is suddenly nervous and urgent:

HI

Wanna keep your voice down, Glen?

GLEN

I'll pitch my voice wherever I please! His name ain't Hi Jr.! His name ain't Ed Jr.! But it's junior an right! Yes sir, it's Nathan Jr.!

Hi takes one step down holding out a calming hand.

Glen takes two nervous steps away and reassures himself by resting a hand on the door of his station wagon.

GLEN

...Stay away from me, McDunnough!

Hi stops short. Glen smiles.

GLEN
...Sure, you're an awful big man when you got somethin' around to clobber a guy with!

HI
(softly)
I ain't a big man.

GLEN
That's right! And now you're at my mercy!

He spits on the dirt in front of him.

GLEN
...I'm your worst nightmare! I wanted to just turn you in for the re-ward. But Dot, she wants something to cuddle. So it looks like that baby's gonna be Glen Jr.
From now on!

Hi's face is set in rigid dismay.

GLEN
...I'll give you a day to break the news to Ed...

Glen is getting into his car.

GLEN
...Dot'll be by tomorrow to pick him up.

He slams the door.

GLEN
...It's either that or jail. Oh and say, that reminds me! You'll find a doctor bill in the mail in a few days. I recommend you pay it!

And the car squeals off.

Hi looks back at the trailer.

HIS POV

A slat in the window blind drops back into place.

BACK TO HI

He opens the door.

INT. TRAILER

Evelle is already emerging from the bedroom with the baby in his arms.

Hi moves toward Evelle. His teeth are set; he means business.

HI
What's goin' on here.

Gale steps in front of Hi.

GALE
You know what's goin' on, H.I. It's just business. Now this can go either hard or easy-

Hi gives Gale a hard push to get past him. Gale staggers back but recovers and grabs Hi in a bear hug.

Hi flips Gale. Gale lands on a coffee table which flips up and crashes back down.

Evelle is dancing back out of Hi's reach. As Hi lunges for him the prostrate Gale grabs his legs.

Hi goes down hard.

Gale leaps to his feet and - CRASH - bangs his head up against an overhanging lamp. Both of his hands fly up to massage the top of his head.

THOOMP - Hi's fist flies into frame to connect with Gale's unguarded stomach. Gale doubles over, clutching at his gut.

Hi interlaces his fingers to make a club of his two hands.

With Gale's bowed head a target in front of him, Hi swings his hands up over his head.

Hi's knuckles scrape painfully against the plaster of the too - low ceiling. Skin is flayed, plaster crumbles.

Hi grabs at his knuckles in pain. Gale lunges with a mid-body tackle that sends Hi crashing into the wall.

Gale, still on top of him, reaches back to throw a punch.

The reach-back sends his elbow crashing through a window but doesn't stop the punch.

It connects with Hi's jaw.

Gale throws another quick punch, all his weight behind it. Hi's head bobs sideways just in time and Gale's fist goes through the wall. It is momentarily stuck there.

Hi uses the opportunity to grab Gale's one free arm with both of his. He is twisting it to make Gale, roaring with pain, twist around and present his back to him.

Hi climbs aboard, grabbing Gale's face.

Gale, still roaring, is pulling his fist out of the hole. He grabs a lath exposed by the hole and pulls; it tears out of the wall and snaps free, giving him a length of about two feet.

Gale is rampaging around like a grizzly bear hemmed in a too-small space. Hi is hanging on for dear life, his own feet flailing this way and that, knocking over lamps and wall fixtures as Gale bends and twirls about, trying to shake him loose. Gale crashes and bounces off the walls, roaring in pain and fury.

Close shots of Gale's face show his features impossibly and grotesquely contorted by Hi's hand, squeezing, gripping and clutching at it.

Evelle is dancing around with the baby, dodging crashing furniture and flailing body parts.

EXT. WIDE SHOT THE TRAILER

At the cut Gale's roaring drops out. We hear the chirping of birds and the laughter of children playing in the neighborhood.

It is a sunny day.

BACK TO INT. TRAILER

Gale still roars. With a last mighty effort, he finally swings Hi off his body.

Hi crashes against a wall and through it to land in the:

BATHROOM

Amid a shower of plaster dust and lath. Hi has landed, groggily, against the toilet.

Evelle enters now with his hands free, apparently having set the baby down somewhere.

He yanks the cord off the bathroom blinds.

LIVING ROOM

Hi is seated in a straight-back chair, still violently struggling but Gale's arms are wrapped around him from behind.

Evelle is just finishing tying off his wrists behind the chair.

No one talks; there is nothing left to say.

Finished, Gale goes to the door and Evelle goes to the bedroom. He emerges with the baby and precedes Gale out the door, Gale slamming it behind him.

Hi starts bucking and struggling, weeping tears of rage and frustration. He succeeds only in tipping forward, face down into the carpet, the strapped-on chair pressing down on top of him.

His profile is pressed into the carpet.

Offscreen we hear the door of the trailer opening.

HI'S POV

At carpet level. Gale's shoes enter his field of vision. They stride over to a mess of debris in the corner of the living room.

OBJECTIVE SHOT

As Gale paws through the wreckage to expose the copy of Dr. Spock's Baby and Child Care. He grabs the book.

HI'S POV

The feet walk away and leave his field of vision.

CLOSE ON HI

As we hear the door slam shut with horrible finality.

Hi's mouth stretches wide. He ROARS with grief and frustration.

WIDE SHOT

Moving down the road toward an oncoming car. As the oncoming car gets closer we can see Gale and Evelle in its front seat.

As the car passes we pan with it, to reveal that we have been shooting from the inside of another car, and we hold on the profile of its driver: Ed. She has just watched the other car shoot past.

ED

...Good.

QUICK FADE OUT

INT. DEVASTATED TRAILER

As Ed sits heavily into frame, apparently in shock, her frozen profile to the camera as she stares straight ahead into space.

Her foreground hand absently holds a length of cord.

Beyond her in the middle background Hi is rummaging in the debris. He stands up, cropped from the chest down and starts loading bullets into the chamber of Ed's .38 police special.

HI

(frantically)

I know you're worried honey but believe me, there ain't a thing to worry about. We're gonna get him back, there just ain't no question about that...

He snaps the chamber shut and leaves frame, still talking.

HI

...We'll get him back, that's just all there is to it. And you wanna know another thing?

He is walking back into frame holding another handgun now in addition to the .38, this one an automatic.

HI

...I'm gonna be a better person from here on out. And that's final, I mean that's absolutely the way it's gonna be, that's official. You were right and I was wrong...

He snaps a clip into the automatic.

HI

...A blind man could tell you that. Now they ain't gonna hurt him, they're just in it for the score...

Hi is leaving frame again, continuing to talk as we hear him rummaging offscreen.

HI
...But I ain't like that no more,
I'm a changed man. You were right and I was wrong. We got a family here and I'm gonna start acting responsibly...

Hi enters frame with the two handguns stuck in his belt, holding his pump-action shotgun.

HI
...So let's go honey...

He primes the shotgun: WHOOSH-CLACK.

HI
...Let's go get Nathan Jr.

TRACKING SHOT

From the front bumper of an automobile. Beautiful desert stretches to the horizon. The road rushes under the camera.

GALE AND EVELLE'S CAR

Gale drives, gazing out at the road. Evelle holds Nathan Jr., occasionally bouncing him.

Contemplatively:

GALE
I luuuuv to drive.

EVELLE
You said somethin' there, partner.

GALE
...Yessir, I figure with the ransom and this bank, you'n I'll be sittin' in the fabled catbird seat.

Evelle is looking down at the baby, shifting him in his lap.

EVELLE
Uh, Gale... Junior had a, uh, accident.

GALE
What's that, pardner?

EVELLE
He had a little accident.

Gale looks over.

GALE
Wuddya mean, he looks okay.

EVELLE
No, ya see... Movin' though we are, he just had hisself a rest stop.

GALE
Well it's perfectly natural.

EVELLE
(very excited)
Hey Gale!

GALE
What now?

Evelle, beaming, looks up from the baby to Gale.

EVELLE
...He smiled at me!

THE SUN

A huge rumbling rippling red ball that fills the frame.

As we hear his footfalls on concrete steps, Smalls rises into frame, apparently climbing a stoop. The sun behind him throws him into silhouette; the extreme telephoto flattens him against the sun. Heat waves ripple between us and him, making his figure slightly waver.

The rumble builds, louder and louder, until it is snapped off by a-

INT. TRAILER

CLICK. The front door handle clicks open and Smalls stands in the doorway. The abandoned trailer is perfectly quiet.

The room is a complete shambles from the fight. Sunlight filters in between the slats of the venetian blinds. Smoke from Lenny Smalls' cheroot ripples up through the light.

After only a momentary pause at the door to take in the scene, Smalls goes directly to a specific spot in the debris and nudges some of it aside with his toe, exposing a piece of paper.

He bends down to pick it up but suddenly freezes, with a soft grunt of surprise.

HIS POV

At knee-height on the wall in front of him, "FART" is scrawled in crayon.

BACK TO SMALLS

As he stands up with the piece of paper.

THE PAPER

It is Gale's picture of the Farmers and Mechanics Bank.

INT. CONVENIENCE STORE

Close on a carton of diapers being set down on the check-out counter.

EVELLE (O.S.)
Know how you put these thangs on?

WIDER

Evelle and the Cashier, a late-middle-aged man (perhaps the proprietor of this small mom-and-pop store) face each other across the check-out counter. Evelle has various baby purchases - the diapers, baby food, etc. - piled on the counter. The Cashier is ringing them up.

Through the open door beyond them we can see a strip of the parking lot.

CASHIER
Welp. Around the butt, then up over the groin area-

EVELLE
I know where they go, old timer. I mean do I need pins or fasteners?

We see Gale trotting past through the visible part of the parking lot, cooing "Weeeeeee!" as he holds Nathan Jr. Up over his head.

CASHIER
Well no, they got those tape-ettes already on there, it's self-contained and fairly explanatory.

EVELLE
Uh-huh...

He takes a plastic-covered squirt gun off a display rack and drops it on the counter. He is looking around at the other impulse purchases displayed by the register; he unhooks a bag of balloons.

EVELLE
...These blow up into funny shapes at all?

Gale is trotting by in the opposite direction: "Weeeeeee!"

CASHIER
Well no. Unless round is funny.

Evelle is pulling a gun out of his belt.

EVELLE
All right, I'll take these too. Now you lie down back there-

CASHIER
Yessir!

EVELLE
And don't you move till you've counted up to eight hundred and twenty-five and then backwards down to zero. I'll be back to check - see y'ain't cheatin'.

The Cashier is already down on the floor, out of frame.

CASHIER (O.S.)
You the diaper burglar?

As he heads for the door with the groceries:

EVELLE
Looks like I'm one of 'em.

EXT. STORE

As Evelle hurriedly emerges with the two bags. Faintly we can hear the Cashier bellowing: "One one thousand, two one thousand..."

EVELLE
Get the door, will ya?

Gale is slipping the baby back into his car seat, which sits on the roof of the car. He starts doing up the straps.

GALE

He's a real cheerful little critter once he warms up to ya.

Hands free now, Gale reaches for the back door.

EVELLE

Hurry up Gale...

Gale has the door open. Evelle starts throwing in the groceries.

EVELLE

I don't know how high this one can count.

GALE AND EVELLE'S CAR

Gale drives as Evelle sorts through his purchases.

EVELLE

I got him some baby grub... baby wipes... diapers, disposable... packet of balloons-

GALE

They blow up into funny shapes at all?

EVELLE

No, just-

Gale is looking around, puzzled.

GALE

Say, where's Junior?

EVELLE

Wuddya mean, didn't you put him in?!

GALE

No, I thought-

The two men look at each other.

REVERSE

The two men's heads whip around to look in the back seat.

BACK TO FRONT ANGLE

They look at each other in horror.

GALE
Where'd we leave him?!

The two men's eyes widen as they remember at the same time:
both look up at the roof of the car.

CLOSE ON GALE'S FOOT

Coming off the accelerator.

CLOSE ON EVELLE

Screaming as he watches the foot:

EVELLE NOOOOOO!!

But too late.

GALE'S FOOT

Already plunging down on the brake. SQUEEEEEEEAL...

TWO SHOT

Evelle is screaming at the top of his lungs as the car rocks to a stop. He peers through the windshield, still screaming, but nothing has shot off the roof of the car.

He cranes his neck to look up the slant of the windshield toward the roof. This of course gives him no view; still screaming, he thrusts his body out his open window to look up at the roof. His scream is muted as his head disappears from view, then comes back full force as he ducks back in, frantically shaking his head.

With this Gale's last hope disappears and he starts bellowing also.

GALE'S FOOT

Rising from the brake to plunge down on the accelerator.

EXT. THE CAR

As it hangs a squealing U-turn and races off at top speed.

LOW WIDE SHOT

In the foreground Nathan Jr. sits upright in his car seat, in the middle of the road that fronts the convenience store.
He is placidly looking at the scenery.

Faintly, we hear the Cashier bellowing:

CASHIER

...Seven hunnert ninety-seven one thousand, seven hunnert ninety-six one thousand...

GALE AND EVELLE

In their speeding car, both staring out at the road ahead, mouths gaping, emitting ear-splitting screams.

INT. STORE

Shot faces the front of the store with some of the street visible outside. The Cashier on the floor is out of frame, but we can hear him loud and clear:

CASHIER

...Seven hunnert ninety-one one thousand, seven hunnert - ah... bullshit.

He rises into frame, back to the camera, just as: We see Gale and Evelle's car, through the front window, roaring up the street. Quick as a shot, the Cashier has dropped back out of frame and resumes bellowing:

CASHIER

Seven hunnert ninety - ought one thousand! Seven hundred eighty -

The car is starting to squeal to a screaming halt.

BACK TO LOW WIDE SHOT

With Nathan Jr. in the foreground. Gale and Evelle's car comes to a rocking halt behind - and inches shy of - the baby.

Evelle's door is already open. He bolts from it and runs over to the baby, blubbering. He picks up the car seat and Nathan Jr.

Gale is also getting out of the car.

EVELLE

Promise we ain't never gonna give him up, Gale! We ain't never gonna let him go!

Gale, choked up, speaks in a low unsteady voice:

GALE

We'll never give him up, Evelle. He's our little Gale Jr. now.

HI AND ED'S CAR

Hi driving. Both are staring wordlessly ahead at the road.

Hi looks over at Ed, glum but trying to be kind.

HI

...Ed, I realize I can't be much of a comfort to you. But lemme just say this...

He is nodding to himself.

HI

You'll feel a whole lot better when-

ED

I don't wanna feel better.

HI

Honey-

ED

I don't care about myself anymore.
I don't care about us anymore. I just want Nathan Junior back safe.

HI

I know that-

ED

If we don't get him back safe, I don't wanna go on livin'. And even if we do, I don't wanna go on livin' with you.

This shuts Hi up.

After a moment:

ED

...I guess I still love you Hi; I know I do. I ain't even blaming you. The whole thing was crazy and the whole thing was my idea.

Hi clears his throat.

HI

Well, factually, I myself bear a very large-

ED

Lemme finish. Since those jailbirds took little Nathan I been doin' some thinking, and I ain't too proud of myself. Even if Mrs. Arizona had more'n she could handle, I was a police officer sworn to uphold the Constitution of the United States -

HI

Now waitamminute honey, you resigned before we-

ED

That ain't the point, Hi. We don't deserve Nathan Jr. Any more'n those jailbirds do. And if I'm as selfish and irresponsible as you-

HI

Y'ain't that bad, honey.

ED

If I'm as bad as you, what good're we to each other. You'n me's just a fool's paradise.

FARMERS AND MECHANICS BANK

Baking in the noonday sun.

GALE AND EVELLE

Sitting in the front seat of their idling car, looking at the bank.

EVELLE

There she is.

GALE

Yep. Welp...

They look at each other. Gale reaches for his door.

GALE

...Let's do her.

EVELLE

Waitamminute. What do we do with Gale Jr.?

GALE

Wuddya mean, he waits here.

EVELLE

Are you crazy?! He can't wait here by hisself. Supposin' we get killed in there - it could be hours before he's discovered.

INT. FARMERS AND MECHANICS BANK

As Gale and Evelle bang in through the door. Evelle holds a shotgun; Gale holds a shotgun in one hand and Nathan Jr. in his car seat in the other.

GALE

All right you hayseeds, it's a stick-up! Everbody freeze! Everbody down on the ground!

Everyone freezes, staring at Gale and Evelle. An Old Hayseed with his hands in the air speaks up:

HAYSEED

Well which is it young fella? You want I should freeze or get down on the ground? Mean to say, iffen I freeze, I can't rightly drop. And iffen I drop, I'm a gonna be in motion. Ya see -

GALE

SHUTUP!

Promptly:

HAYSEED

Yessir.

GALE

Everone down on the ground!

EVELLE

Y'all can just forget that part about freezin'.

GALE

That is until they get down there.

EVELLE

Y'all hear that?

There is a murmur of acknowledgment from all the people on the ground.

Gale is tossing Evelle a sack.

GALE
Wanna fill that sack, pardner? We got - shit!

He is looking in shock at the tellers' counter.

GALE
...Where'd all the tellers go?

There is no one behind the counter.

A muffled voice from offscreen:

VOICE
We're down here, sir.

EVELLE
They're down on the ground like you commanded, Gale.

GALE
I told you not to use m'damn name!
Can't you even try to keep from forget'n that?!

Evelle is momentarily abashed, but then brightens:

EVELLE
Not even yer code name?

Gale registers understanding.

GALE
Oh yeah... m'code name.

EVELLE
Y'all hear that?

There is a murmur of acknowledgment from all the people on the ground.

GALE
All right now everone, we're just about ready to begin the robbery proper...

EXT. POLICE CAR

The camera is locked down on the roof of the rocketing squad car, looking past its flashing gumballs.

The car is approaching the townlet, its siren wailing.

BACK TO THE BANK

A teller is finishing stuffing the last of two burlap bags. Close on her hands, we see her putting in a cash packet that is really only a few bills and a sleeve surrounding and hiding a small plastic device.

The teller hits a button on the device and it starts ticking; she shoves it into the sack.

EVELLE

All right now everyone, you know how this works: Y'all stay flattened for ten full minutes...

He is grabbing the two sacks and tosses one to Gale, who also picks up the baby. As the two are backing toward the door:

EVELLE

...We might come back in five to check. That's for us to know and y'a to find out.

GALE

Anyone found bipedal in five wears his ass for a hat.

They bolt out the door.

EXT. POLICECAR

Siren jumps in loud at the cut. It is the same locked-down shot over the gumballs.

EXT. GALE AND EVELLE'S CAR

Peeling out from in front of the bank.

INT. GALE AND EVELLE'S CAR

Gale is driving; Evelle starts pawing through one of the sacks.

GALE

That old timer threw off my concentration. Otherwise it would a gone smoother.

EVELLE

We done okay. Yessir. This ought to split nicely three ways.

A thought registers with Gale and Evelle at the same moment.

They look at each other. They both twist frantically to look in the back seat.

Bellowing:

GALE
Goddamnit! Ya never leave a man behind!

KA-POP! With a loud flat crack something detonates in the front seat and the interior of the car is spattered with bright blue paint.

Gale and Evelle, both covered in blue, are screaming in rage, fear and incomprehension. Blue dollar bills snap and flutter around the inside of the car.

The car is swerving wildly as Gale drives blind, the inside of the windshield covered with blue paint. He reaches forward to wipe clear a patch of windshield.

HIS POV

As the blue paint is smeared away we see Hi and Ed's car parked broadside in the middle of the road. Hi and Ed are in front of it, Hi aiming his scatter gun, Ed a revolver.

The guns spit orange flame.

HI'S POV

Down the barrel of his shotgun. The car with the blue interior is swerving crazily at us, one front tire blown out.

Hi lets go with the other barrel.

The shot chews up the front grill, shatters one headlight and blows out the other front tire. The hood of the car flies open.

The car is squealing to a halt and Gale and Evelle pile out, still bellowing.

GALE
Goddamnit H.I., ain't we got enough to contend with?

Ed is running over to Gale and Evelle's car, throwing open the back door to look for the baby but coming out only with Dr. Spock's Baby and Child Care.

Evelle is staggering around in shock, looking in disbelief at his own blue body.

ED
Where's the baby?

Evelle points this way and that, in a state of confusion.

EVELLE
I think we left him on the roof of the... he must be back at the...

Hi and Ed are climbing into their car.

GALE
Let us come with you!

Hi and Ed are already peeling out.

GALE
...He's our baby too!

CLOSE ON NATHAN JR.

Sitting placidly in his car seat that sits in the middle of the road in front of the bank.

We can hear the wail of the police siren still approaching.

As we hold on Nathan Jr. we hear the distant booming of a shotgun.

As we boom up to show the empty street beyond the baby, we hear the crack of return fire and furiously squealing brakes. The screech culminates in a loud explosion that snaps off the siren wail. The police car is apparently history.

From beyond the crest of the road ahead a ball of flame has leapt up with the explosion. As the explosion echoes and fades we hear the deep rumble of an approaching engine.

Lenny Smalls' motorcycle appears over the rise. Framed against fire and smoke, he is coming directly toward us, and the baby.

FROM BEHIND HI AND ED

As they top a rise coming from the other direction. We see the baby sitting in the middle of the street, and Lenny fast approaching from the background.

LOCKED DOWN TO MOTORCYCLE

The extremely low wide shot, locked down to the speeding bike, shows us rushing toward the rear of Nathan Jr's car seat.

With a clank of chains Lenny's hand drops down into frame, palm forward, tensing to scoop up the car seat that we are almost upon.

A tattoo on Lenny's wrist reads "No Prisoners."

REVERSE

Low shot with Nathan Jr. in the foreground.

He is scooped up and out of frame as Lenny roars by.

ON LENNY

Roaring along. He hooks the car seat over his handlebars.

OVER HI AND ED'S SHOULDERS

Lenny is approaching. Under her breath:

ED
What is he?

HI
...D'you see him too?

Lenny is sawing a shotgun out of his back holster and leveling it at the oncoming car.

Lenny is sighting down the gun, swinging it around as he approaches the car.

HI AND ED DUCK JUST AS:

The shotgun spits orange flame and the windshield explodes in.

Lenny roars by.

LENNY'S POV

The baby on the handlebars in the foreground; the road rushing by beyond him.

The bike banks into a hard turn.

FACING HI AND ED

Shooting through where the windshield used to be, cutting in at the end of the skid as the car rocks to a halt.

Hi and Ed are raising their heads. Facing forward, they do not see Lenny approaching again through the rear window.

He is sawing out his second shotgun.

Hi looks around, reaches and pulls Ed down beneath him just as:

KA-BOOM! - The second shotgun roars and the back window spits in.

As Lenny roars past the back window he casually flips something in.

LOOKING DOWN AT HI AND ED

Folded over in the front seat. Below them something bounces into and around the leg well - Lenny's grenade.

EXT. CAR

As the two front doors fly open and Hi and Ed spill out - Hi from the driver's side, heading for the far side of the road, and Ed from the passenger side.

ON ED

As she dives for cover behind a parked car. Beyond her - KABOOM! - their car explodes and bounces, pouring black smoke.

ON HI

The explosion flings him to the ground in the middle of the street.

THROUGH FIRE AND SMOKE

Looking up the street to where Lenny is wheeling his bike in a U-turn. He is not finished yet.

Hi flat on his back, woozily shaking his head.

He weakly raises himself on his elbows to look down the street.

HI'S POV

Looking down the length of his own body. His legs stretch away in a V.

Crashing down from a wheelie, Lenny's roaring bike is almost upon him - aiming up the middle of the V.

HI

He rolls. As the bike is roaring by:

HI'S HAND

Reaches and snags a chain on Lenny's passing boot.

HI

Dragged several yards before the boot shakes him off, leaving him on his stomach in the middle of the road.

Hi looks up the road.

HI'S POV

Lenny is again sluing the bike around.

REAR WHEEL OF BIKE

Smoking as it skids around in the foreground, completing its turn.

Boom up Lenny's back to reveal Ed stomping straight up the street toward him - unarmed, unafraid.

ED

I want that baby!

BACK TO HI

He reaches back to pull up his shirt, revealing a gun tucked in his pants in the small of his back. He grabs the gun.

OVER LENNY'S SHOULDER

As Ed closes in.

ED

Gimme that baby, you warthog from hell!

Lenny's arms rise into frame. With a roll of his wrists two knives appear in his hands.

BACK TO HI

On his stomach, sighting down the gun toward Lenny.

HIS POV

Ed stepping into his line of fire, blocking Lenny.

FROM BEHIND LENNY

Raising an arm to stab.

Ed stoops to scoop the baby from the car seat, revealing:
Hi, behind her. He fires.

LENNYS HAND

Drilled by Hi's bullet, drops its knife.

The exit wound spurts, not flesh and blood, but a brief jet of fire.

LENNY

Quick as a flash hurling the other knife at Hi.

HI

As the knife stings the gun out of his hand.

KNIFE ON THE GROUND AT LENNY'S FEET

Lenny bends to scoop up the knife he dropped.

TRACKING BEHIND ED

As she runs toward the bank, clutching Nathan Jr. to her chest.

INT. BANK

As Ed bursts in. The floor is littered with obedient hayseeds. From where he lies prone:

OLD TIMER

Just lie down on the floor, missie.

BANG: The front door bursts open before Lenny's roaring hog.

It sails off a step into the sunken atrium, and lands with a CRASH amidst the hayseeds.

TRACKING BEHIND ED

As she runs for the back door and pushes through it.

TRACKING BEHIND LENNY

As he slaloms through the wildly scattering hayseeds.

EXT. BACK OF BANK

As Lenny bursts out.

With a whipcrack effect he looks left, then right. He jerks the bike right, to where an alleyway flanks the side of the bank.

ALLEYWAY

Ed is running up the alley toward the front of the bank as Lenny enters. He roars after her.

LENNY'S POV

Roaring down the alley.

TRACKING IN FRONT OF ED

As the bike approaches behind her.

BACK TO LENNY'S POV

Closing on Ed as she reaches the mouth of the alley. A plank swings into frame, straight at the camera.

REVERSE

Matching action as Hi finishes swinging the plank into Lenny's face.

Lenny hits the ground hard as his bike spins out from under him.

THE BIKE

Riderless, twisting crazily into the street where it collapses.

HI AND ED

Lenny is rising to his feet beyond them as Hi nods encouragement to Ed.

HI

Run along now, honey.

Lenny is reaching back to throw his knife.

Hi, unaware, is turning to face him, presenting the plank as - the knife is thrown.

It thunks into the plank, piercing it through.

Hi backs up, swinging the knife - studded plank to make Lenny keep his distance.

TRACKING BEHIND LENNY'S SHOULDER

As he reaches up to unhook a chain from a ring on his vest shoulder.

LENNY'S HAND

As the free chain drops down into his palm.

LENNY

Swinging the chain - WHOOSH WHOOSH - at the backpedaling Hi.

THE PLANK

As the chain snakes around it and rips it out of Hi's hands.

LENNY

Grabbing Hi by the shirtfront.

LENNY'S OTHER HAND

Swings down and brass knuckles appear on it.

ON HI

As Lenny's fist swings into frame to club him forehand, then backhand.

An uppercut from his heels sends Hi sprawling back.

A PARKED CAR

As Hi lands against it, banging his head. He sinks to the ground.

Lenny is casually walking toward him, lighting a cheroot. Hi flops over onto his stomach and starts wriggling under the car.

FROM UNDER THE CAR

Hi's face in the foreground as he desperately seeks escape.

Behind him we can see Lenny casually reaching down and grabbing an ankle.

The shot is framed identically to the shot in the Arizona nursery where Hi pulled a baby from under the crib.

Lenny pulls. Hi is dragged away from the camera and out from under the car.

HI

Struggling to stand up.

Lenny wraps his arms around him and applies a tremendous bear hug.

HI'S ARMS

Crushed against Lenny. His hands paw futilely at Lenny's chest.

FULL SHOT

Lenny finally flings Hi away.

HI

Landing in the dust, all the fight beaten out of him.

LENNY

Tired of the fight: He saws out both shotguns

THE HAMMERS

On the guns as Lenny's thumbs draw them back. He raises the guns to fire.

HI

The end of the road.

He wearily lifts a hand, defensively extending it in front of him - then stops, staring at:

HI'S HAND

A hand grenade pin hangs, glinting, from one of his fingers.

Pawing at Lenny's chest he must have hooked his finger through its ring.

HI

Reacting.

LENNY

Reacting to Hi reacting. He looks down.

LENNY'S CHEST

On the bandoliers across his chest, silver pins glint in all the grenades - except one. Its squeeze-lever juts at a right angle from the grenade.

LENNY'S FACE

Hi's jaw drops.

LENNY'S FEET

The lit cheroot hits the ground between his boots.

HI

Scrambling to his feet.

LENNY

Trying to drop the shotguns to free his hands. In his panic his fingers tangle in the trigger guards.

HI

Starting to run.

LENNY

Finally freeing his hands.

HI

Diving behind the parked car.

LENNY'S CHEST

His hands fly in to wrap around the grenade - too late - bright light:

LENNY

Blows sky-high. There is a roar as if the earth were cracking open and flame as if hell were slipping out.

We pan the fire to the sky.

FADE OUT

A white aluminum ladder rises up into the blackness, clanking softly. The top of the ladder arcs toward the camera.

JUMP BACK

To the interior of the Arizona second-story nursery as the ladder comes to rest against the window frame.

It is late at night; the nursery is dark and empty.

THE HEADBOARD

Of the unpainted crib with the burned-in names: Harry, Barry, Larry, Garry, and Nathan Jr.

As we pull back from the headboard Ed's arms are gently depositing the sleeping Nathan Jr. into the crib. Hi puts the singed copy of Dr. Spock's Baby and Child Care next to the baby.

REVERSE

Hi and Ed looking sadly down at the baby.

The silence is broken by the bleat of a squeeze-me toy as the lights are snapped on. Hi and Ed turn, startled.

NURSERY DOORWAY

Nathan stands in his jammies, hair disheveled, holding a gun and squinting against the light.

Keeping the gun trained on Hi and Ed, he slowly raises a pair of eyeglasses to his nose.

NATHAN

The hell is goin' on?

He advances cautiously into the nursery, gesturing with his gun.

NATHAN

...Get away from there.

Hi and Ed back away from the crib.

Nathan peers in and studies the baby for a moment.

He lays the gun down, tenderly picks up the baby and holds him to his chest. A tear forms at the corner of his eye.

Hi and Ed are quietly moving back towards the ladder.

NATHAN

(sharply)

Waitamminute...

Hi and Ed Stop.

NATHAN

...I ain't through with you.
What're you doin' creepin' around here in the dark? You in with Smalls?

HI
...Scuse me?

As he bounces the baby, studying Hi and Ed:

NATHAN
Leonard Smalls, big fella rides a Harley, dresses like a rock star?

HI
No sir, that's who we saved him from. It's a long story.

NATHAN
Suppose you tell it.

HI
Well, sir, in a re-ward situation, they usually say no questions asked.

NATHAN
Do they.

Hi shrugs.

Nathan turns to put the baby back in the crib.

NATHAN
...All right, boy, I guess you got a re-ward coming. Twenty thousand dollars...

He turns around with a thought:

NATHAN
...Or, if you need home furnishings, I can give you a fine of credit at any of my stores.
Fact, that's the way I'd rather handle it, for tax reasons...

HI
Well-

Nathan throws his hands up in the air.

NATHAN
But it's up to you.

HI
Tell you the truth, I think we'd prefer the ca-

ED

We don't want no reward.

Hi does a small take, surprised at this much integrity.

ED

...We didn't bring him back for money.

NATHAN

Well, we could work it that way too.

ED

Could I just look at him a little bit more?

She stands looking into the crib. Hi steps up next to her and puts an arm around her shoulder.

NATHAN

Be my guest, young lady... but would you mind tellin' me exactly how you-

Ed starts crying softly as she gazes into the crib. Hi murmurs something to comfort her.

Nathan is studying the two of them.

NATHAN

...You took him, didn't you? Wasn't that biker a'tal.

Hi turns to face him. He speaks in a rush.

HI

I took him, sir, my wife had nothin' to do with it. I crept in yon window and-

ED

(still crying)
We both did it. We didn't wanna hurt him any; I just wanted to be a mama.

HI

It wasn't for money or nothin'. We just figured you had more'n you could handle, babywise. But I'm the one committed the actual crime sir, if you need to call the authorities-

NATHAN

Shutup boy, no one's callin' the authorities if there's no harm done.

HI

Thank you sir.

ED

Thank you sir.

NATHAN

Aw bullshit. Just tell me - just tell me why you did it.

ED

We can't have our own.

Nathan looks at her. Finally he nods and sighs.

NATHAN

...Well lookit. If you can't have kids you gotta just keep tryin' and hope medical science catches up with you. Like Florence'n me - it caught up with a vengeance. And hell, even if it never does, you still got each other.

HI

Sir, those're kind words. But I think the wife and me are splittin' up...

He indicates Ed with a nod of the head.

HI

...Her point of view is we're both kinda selfish and unrealistic, so we ain't too good for each other.

NATHAN

Well ma'am, I don't know much but I do know human bein's. You brought back my boy so you must have your good points too. I'd sure hate to think of Florence leavin' me - I do love her so...

He clears his throat and turns to the door. His tone is harder again:

NATHAN

...You can go out the way you came
in...

He snaps off the lights.

NATHAN

...And before you go off and do another foolish thing, like busting up, I suggest you sleep on it...

He has disappeared into the hall. We hear his voice receding:

NATHAN

...at least one night.

HIGH SHOT

Looking straight down at Hi, asleep in the trailer bedroom.
We start to crane down.

VOICE OVER

That night I had a dream...

EXTREME WIDE SHOT

A beautiful dusk landscape. We are floating in over the field, abutting the prison, that Gale and Evelle popped out of.

In the middle background of the extreme long shot two men are walking across the field.

VOICE OVER

...I dreamt I was as light as the ether, a floating spirit visiting things to come...

BACK TO HIGH SHOT BEDROOM

Craning down toward Hi.

VOICE OVER

The shades and shadows of the people in my life wrestled their way into my slumber.

BACK TO FIELD

Still floating forward but now much closer to the two walking men. We see that they are Gale and Evelle. Both are still dyed blue.

They are approaching the hole in the ground.

VOICE OVER

I dreamt that Gale and Evelle had decided to return to prison...

Evelle is starting to climb into the hole.

VOICE OVER

...Probably that's just as well. I don't mean to sound superior, and they're a swell couple guys, but...

Evelle has disappeared and Gale starts climbing in.

VOICE OVER

...maybe they weren't ready yet to come out into the world.

FLOATING UP THE WALK OF THE ARIZONA HOME

The front door has a holly wreath on it.

VOICE OVER

And then I dreamed on, into the future, to a Christmas morn in the Arizona home...

DISSOLVE THROUGH TO

ARIZONA LIVING ROOM

Five three-year-olds in their pajamas are opening presents around a tree as Nathan and Florence look on.

VOICE OVER

...where Nathan Jr. was opening a present from a kindly couple who preferred to remain unknown.

We have been isolating in on one of the children peeling the wrappings off a package marked to Nathan Jr. Inside is a shiny red plastic football.

FLOATING IN TOWARD A STATION WAGON

Pulled over on the state highway in the middle of the desert, a police motorcycle parked behind it. Glen is leaning out the driver's window of the car talking to the state trooper who stands facing him.

VOICE OVER

I saw Glen, a few years later, still havin' no luck gettin' the cops to listen to his wild tales about me'n Ed...

Glen is grinning and talking with his hands cupped in front of him, as when he told Hi about the Pollack who almost stepped in the pile of shit.

The trooper, in crash helmet and dark sunglasses, is listening tight-lipped and stone-faced as Glen finishes his story and slaps his knee.

VOICE OVER

...Maybe he threw in one Pollack joke too many...

The trooper is clicking open his ballpoint pen and reaching his citation book from his breast pocket. The name tag on the pocket says "SGT. KOWALSKI."

VOICE OVER

...I don't know.

FLOATING IN TOWARD A FOOTBALL

It sits on a tee in the middle of a football field.

VOICE OVER

And still I dreamed on...

A cleated foot boots the football out of frame.

VOICE OVER

...further into the future than I'd ever dreamed before.

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL PLAYER

Looking up, arms out at his sides, waiting to receive the kicked ball.

VOICE OVER

...Watching Nathan Jr.'s progress from afar...

He catches the ball and starts running.

VOICE OVER

...Taking pride in his accomplishments as if he were our own...

He is skillfully eluding and stiff-arming tacklers.

VOICE OVER

...Wondering if he ever thought of us.

He reaches the end zone and triumphantly spikes the football.

He whips off his helmet and we track in on the face of the rosy-cheeked high-school bruiser.

VOICE OVER

...and hoping that maybe we'd broadened his horizons a little, even if he couldn't remember just how they'd got broadened.

BACK TO BEDROOM

Still craning down, now very close to the sleeping Hi.

VOICE OVER

But still I hadn't dreamt nothin' about me'n Ed. Until the end...

DISSOLVE THROUGH TO

A COUPLE

The man and woman are sitting on a sofa in the foreground with their backs to the camera. They are in the living room of Hi and Ed's trailer, which is suffused with a warm golden light.

As they face the trailer's front door, all we see of the couple is the backs of their heads. They both have white hair, the woman's pulled into a bun. The old man wears a cardigan, the woman a shawl.

VOICE OVER

...And this was cloudier 'cause it was years, years away.

The front door bursts open. Two young couples are entering as their kids - about a dozen of them - stream in around them.

The old couple on the couch raise their arms to embrace their visitors. The children boil onto the couch.

VOICE OVER

...But I saw an old couple bein' visited by their children - and all their grandchildren too. And the old couple wasn't screwed up, and neither were their kids or their grandkids. And I don't know, you tell me. This whole dream, was it wishful thinking? Was I just fleein' reality, like I know I'm liable to do?

FLOATING IN TOWARD A LONG DINING TABLE

In the trailer. The table is all laid out with a Thanksgiving dinner, a huge turkey sitting at the far end.

Cut-out letters at the other end of the room say: "WELCOME HOME KIDS!"

The grandchildren are running into frame and taking their seats at the table, accompanied by their parents.

VOICE OVER

...But me'n Ed, we can be good too...

The elderly couple enter from either side of the camera and stand in the foreground, backs to us, facing the table.

VOICE OVER

...And it seemed real. It seemed like us. And it seemed like well... our home... If not Arizona, then a land, not too far away, where all parents are strong and wise and capable, and all children are happy and beloved... I dunno, maybe it was Utah.

The elderly man drapes an arm around his wife's shoulder and draws her close. She rests her head against his shoulder, and we:

FADE OUT.

THE END